

Advancing Reds Kill 4,500 Nazi Troops in Battle

Also Capture Large Amount of Equipment, Moscow Asserts

Red Cavalry Takes Prominent Part in Fierce Fighting

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
MOSCOW, Thursday, May 28 (AP)—Russian troops battling on the Kharkov-Barvenkova fronts were reported today to have beaten their way forward in both areas after killing 4,500 more Germans and capturing large quantities of equipment. The midnight Soviet communiqué announced that the Red army had consolidated their gains before Kharkov while defeating fierce Nazi attacks in the Izyum-Barvenkova sector eighty miles to the south. A supplementary communiqué said 1,400 Germans had been slain "in the Izyum direction," by men of one rifle unit, and that in another sector the Germans were in retreat after having failed to ford a river—an attempt that was broken up by Soviet artillery firing at short range.

Many Slain by Cavalry
The Germans lost 1,000 dead in that river action, and Soviet cavalrymen slaying forty miles behind the German lines in another area slew 2,100 Germans.

Eighty-two German planes were declared destroyed in Tuesday's fighting, while Soviet losses were listed as twenty-three craft.

Front dispatches had said earlier that the Red army, backed up against a river in the Izyum-Barvenkova area, had counter-attacked in a daring stroke that considerably lessened the Nazi flanking threat there.

Intimating that these two battle-fronts now had become practically one vast field of combat, Maj. Gen. Nikolai Zhuravlev, a military reviewer, said all the fighting was "closely bound up from the operational point of view."

He declared the German failure to break through in the Izyum-Barvenkova area, despite a tremendous massing of tanks, was proof that the Nazis no longer enjoyed their former superiority in armament.

Many Tanks in Action
Already, in these initial operations of spring, the Germans have been forced to use thirty percent of the tanks and armored cars they have on the Russian front, he declared.

All Soviet accounts stressed the number of tanks the Germans were employing (without mentioning an overall estimate) and the numbers the Russians were destroying.

As a typical incident, Red Star, the army paper, said the Germans attacked one village in the Izyum-Barvenkova area for five hours, losing eighteen tanks and 200 other motor vehicles and failing to take the objective.

A similar attack at another point cost the Germans twelve tanks.

Tass, official Soviet news agency, said big tank battles were in progress. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2.)

Both Sides Rest in Murder Trial of Madeline and 2 Men

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—After another day of courtroom fireworks, both sides rested tonight in the trial of dark-haired Madeline Webb, Oklahoma-born model, her sweetheart El Shonbrun, and John D. Cullen on first-degree murder charges in the strangulation of Mrs. Susan Flora Reich, wealthy refugee.

Miss Webb, who had burst out with sharp words and tears during her own testimony and that of other witnesses today, had to be restrained in her chair when a bell captain at the Hotel Sutton, where Mrs. Reich's body was found March 5, testified he had seen her in the vicinity of the hotel on the day of the slaying. The bell captain was the last witness called at a night session.

Throughout her questioning Miss Webb vehemently denied being in the hotel suite at the time of the crime. The state charges that she lured Mrs. Reich to the suite.

Shonbrun, avowing his love for the model, declared on the stand that he and Murray Hirsch, his uncle, "murdered the woman alone" and that Miss Webb had nothing to do with it.

Roosevelt Asks for $600,000,000 For Living Quarters in War Areas

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt asked Congress today for a quick $600,000,000 to provide living quarters for thousands of workers in overcrowded war production centers and so aid any loss of efficiency in the plants themselves.

Meanwhile the Office of Price Administration served notice that rent ceilings would become effective in twenty industrial areas June 1.

Wrecked Crew of American Bomber Returns to Base after Seven Weeks in Desolate Swamplands of New Guinea

American Fliers, Tattered and Shaggy, Reach Australian Base with Story of Hardships

By TOM YARBROUGH

AN ALLIED OPERATIONAL BASE, AUSTRALIA, May 27. (AP)—Tattered and shaggy but grinning big, an American bomber crew has returned to this base after being forced down in the swampy wilds of New Guinea and lost from headquarters for a record span of forty-five days.

It was a day of glad homecoming all around, for with them came an American fighter pilot who had been out twenty-six days.

Several crews have made their way back to base after being lost many days among the native tribes, but this outfit, headed by Pilot Louis W. Ford, 22, of Los Angeles, set the record of nearly seven weeks in the bush.

The entire crew suffered from malaria and tropical ulcers, but they found friendly natives along the way and generally were in good shape when they pulled in.

The other members of the crew are Lieut. John H. Dabro, 21, Delaware, O., Lieut. Edward S. Ashley, San Antonio, Tex., and Private J. E. Ochs, Lancaster, Pa., J. A. Roberts, Kingston, Pa., Robert Long, Centerburg, O., and W. F. Lorange, Saginaw, Mich.

All Happy Now
Today these boys were reveling in the pleasures of cleanly-cooked food, American cigarettes and conversation with people they can understand.

The hero of the second homecoming is Fighter Pilot Arthur E. Andres, 23, of Newton, Mass. Out on his first combat mission over Lae and Salamaua, New Guinea ports, he was nipped by Japanese zero fighters but he kept scrapping. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3.)

$50 Monthly Pay For Troops again Voted in House

Senate Compromise Proposal Rejected by Vote of 332 to 31

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—For the second time in two weeks, the House overwhelmingly voted today for a minimum pay of $50 monthly for service men. It sent back to conference a compromise proposal worked out by a Senate-House committee recommending $42.

The action virtually eliminated any chance for a service pay boost becoming effective before July 1, since the bill provides that any raises shall become effective on the first day of the calendar month following its enactment. For the increase to go into effect June 1, the conferees would have to reach an agreement, and both branches and the president approve it, by Sunday. House leaders already have announced their intention of adjourning after tomorrow.

Help for Dependents
Senate and House consideration of the bill providing allowances for service men's dependents, a companion measure, also may be delayed.

Cries of "politics" and putting "a dollar sign" on patriotism highlighted the one hour debate that preceded the 332 to 31 vote on a motion by Rep. Rankin (D-Miss) to reject the compromise and instruct the conferees to stand by the House figure. The vote was almost identical with the 332 to 26 count by which the House on May 13 turned down the Senate-approved $42 scale.

Rankin's motion took precedence over one by Chairman May (D-Ky) of the Military Committee that the compromise be accepted. The committee had recommended $42, an increase of $12 over the $30 monthly now paid a private and an apprentice seaman after four months of service. Men entering the service receive $21.

The committee also had recommended that first-class privates and second-class seamen be boosted from $36 to $48, but the House insisted that its action of May 13 raising this figure to $54 be upheld by its conferees.

Deadlock Threatened
May declined to disclose what course he would follow next in behalf of the $42 originally proposed by the army and the navy but several other conferees predicted the joint committee would stick to its guns and report the $42 again.

This procedure, it was thought, might persuade $50 advocates to yield rather than incur a deadlock. Fifty dollars, Rankin told the House, was what nine-tenths of the House membership and the nation wanted. He cited high wages being paid in military workers. Rep. Sutphin (D-N.J.), referring to industrial profits on war contracts, said that if the members failed to vote for at least $50, "we should hang our heads in shame when we pass an enlisted man on the street."

Many Women Seek To Be Officers in Armed Forces

Rush To Enlist Keeps Baltimore Recruiting Officers Busy

By JAMES E. HAGUE
BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP)—Silks and satins mingled with smart tweeds and plain workclothes today in the army recruiting office—until now strictly man's domain.

The women, applying for appointment as officers' candidates in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, gave the recruiting office its busiest hours since the post-pearl harbor rush of young men.

The rush quickly threatened the Baltimore office's supply of application blanks and the stock, 165 when the office opened, had dwindled to 20 by 1 p. m.

Some of the applicants just wanted to trade one uniform for another because there were several candidates who were clad in the trim American Red Cross outfit.

Japanese Army Cut to Pieces in Kinhwa Area

Casualties Placed at 15,300 with at Least 10,000 Dead

Situation in Burma and Yunnan Province Reported Improved

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, May 27 (AP)—The Japanese army of 100,000 which launched the offensive in seaboard Chekiang province has been decimated, having lost 15,300 in casualties, at least 10,000 of them dead, and still has not been able to take Kinhwa, the principal capital, the Chinese reported tonight.

At the same time Chinese advances from the backdoor battlegrounds of Burma and Yunnan province painted a more favorable picture. The American Flying Tigers were reported still hammering Japanese troops who now apparently had been stripped of effective air protection, and Chinese troops reported new successes.

1,500 Japanese Killed

About 1,500 Japanese were killed when they advanced through a Chinese mine field, exploding seventy or eighty of the buried mines the communiqué added, and only about 200 of the Japanese who later succeeded in entering the suburb of Kwangkitow managed to escape from a Chinese bayonet charge.

The situation of Kinhwa was still precarious, however, with fighting continuing to rage on three sides of the city.

An enemy unit also was reported repulsed east of Lanchi, fifteen miles northwest of Kinhwa, after losing 1,300 casualties, and prisoners were reported taken in attacks on the Japanese rear north of Kienteh.

(The Japanese, who were claiming two days ago that their troops were storming into Kinhwa, today reported only entering Lanchi.)

From the Burma road theater in Yunnan province, the Chinese reported the recapture of Nantienmen, south of Lungling on the Burma road, approach to the Salween river.

Continual Pressure in North
To the north of the road the Chinese were continuing their pressure around Tengyueh.

With the Chinese gradually forcing the Japanese back from the Salween, deepest advance of their drive from Burma, the impression grew that the 150,000 Japanese troops in Burma were intended for use against India and not China.

Major Operations By Inexperienced Man Are Success

Ex-Convict with No Medical Training Performed Them in Hospital

CHICO, Calif., May 27 (AP)—An ex-convict, without medical training, who posed his way into a high position on a hospital staff and successfully performed major operations, pleaded guilty today to practicing medicine without a license.

The 47-year-old man then was arrested on a charge of having concealed weapons in violation of California's gun law and was held in lieu of $5,000 bail.

Listed as Arthur Osborne Phillips, he was identified by the arresting officer, Joseph W. Williams, special agent for the state board of medical examiners, as an ex-convict with prison records in Georgia, Alabama, Maryland, Idaho, New York and Pennsylvania.

Posed as Doctor
Williams said that Phillips, posing as Dr. James Herman Phillips, had fooled both doctors and patients with his ability to perform abdominal operations, unassisted, during the two months he has been assistant chief surgeon on the Enloe hospital in Chico, one of the largest in this section of California.

Williams' suspicions were aroused by Phillips' practice of initiating his prescriptions. California law requires the doctor's full name.

Bonuses as High as $50,000 Help In Production, Manufacturer Says

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—James F. Lincoln, president of a company handling millions of dollars of war contracts, testified today that his system of incentive bonuses for employees, ranging as high as $50,000 a year, had saved the government $35,000,000 through increased worker efficiency and reduced costs.

He flatly denied that he had installed the system in an attempt to evade excess profits taxes, and told the House Naval committee that he had conceived the idea of stimulating cooperation after hearing President Roosevelt's "great speech on the abundant life" in 1933.

Tax Evasion Charged
His statement came after Edmund Toland, committee counsel, contended that the Lincoln Electric Company of Cleveland, Ohio, which Lincoln had joined, was guilty of tax evasion.

Murray Flounces Out of Meeting Of Mine Workers

Protests against Accusations CIO Is Traitor to Labor

By JOSEPH A. LOFTIS

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—Philip Murray walked out of a meeting of the United Mine Workers' policy committee today in protest against accusations that the CIO leadership was guilty of sabotage and treason to labor.

District fifty of the mine union made the accusations in a resolution, which said Murray, as CIO president, refused to take any action to prevent a campaign of "abuse, insult, injury, intimidation and slander" against the organization efforts of the district. It did not mention him as vice-president of the UMW. No action was taken immediately on the resolution. The district fifty membership includes dairy farmers, coke, gas, chemical and cosmetic workers.

Murray Criticizes Meeting
Murray said he told the closed meeting the resolution was "an extraordinary procedure that did not conform to the principles of common decency." He said the place to lodge charges against him as CIO president or against other CIO union officers was before the CIO executive board. He invited such action at the board meeting next week.

An official spokesman for the miners said the accusations in the resolution did not constitute formal charges of a constitutional nature and that the policy committee's position was advisory. The executive board, the ruling authority between conventions, may or may not accept the committee's advice. It was said officially the committee probably would act on the resolution, or on another one containing substantially the same subject matter, before adjourning.

Witnesses disclosed that Murray, in protesting the accusations and defending himself before leaving the hall, engaged in an interchange with John L. Lewis, president of the UMW, on the question of Murray's continuing in three positions, vice-president of the miners, president of CIO, and president of the United Steel Workers.

Lewis Raises Question
Lewis, it was said, raised the question. Murray, without answering directly, said Lewis himself had set the precedent by holding three positions, presumably referring to the years in which Lewis was CIO chief and chairman of Labor's Nonpartisan League as well as president of the miners. He added, moreover, (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6.)

WAR COUNCIL TAKES UP INVASION PLANS

British and American Leaders Discuss Next Moves; Vast Air Assault May Be First Move

By J. WES GALLAGHER

LONDON, May 27 (AP)—Two of the chiefs of the U. S. Army's three commands conferred with their British counterparts tonight, and informed observers believed that plans for an invasion of the continent as well as a vast air assault on Germany were being advanced.

The arrival today of Lieut. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, commanding general of the U. S. Army Service of Supply, virtually completed a war council which these observers declared is the "prelude to a vast increase of American ground forces to give the Allies immediate, overwhelming local superiority in men and equipment for an invasion of the continent."

Plan Smash at Japs
It was understood that the conferees may also be concerned with such world-wide coordinating efforts as a joint smash at the Japanese from India and blocking of an Axis offensive in Africa.

Somervell's arrival followed the appearance yesterday of Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the U. S. army air forces. This left only Lieut. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, commander of the ground forces, out of the circle, but the presence of Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, head of the operations divisions, seemed to assure that land as well as air plans were afoot.

Also present was Maj. Gen. Mark W. Clark, chief of staff of the army ground forces. Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of naval aeronautics, and Brigadier General LeRoy Lutes, Charles P. Gross and William C. Lee who accompanied Somervell. This congregation of detail men followed closely upon the recent visit of chief of staff, General George C. Marshall.

Sailor Drowns Trying To Sink Axis Submarine

Seventeen-Year-Old Crewman Goes Down with Ship in Gulf

NEW ORLEANS, May 27 (AP)—Naval Gunner Woodrow Wilson Harrison of Augusta, Ga., tried so hard to bag the Axis submarine that sank the medium sized American freighter on which he was stationed on May 19 in the Gulf of Mexico that he went down with the ship riding the carriage of his blazing gun.

The second class seaman, reportedly only 17 years old, was the only man lost aboard the ship itself, which sank in five minutes in early afternoon, but nineteen crew members in a lifeboat struck by the stricken submarine were rescued under and lost. Twenty-two men were rescued twenty-eight hours later by a passing ship and brought here.

Effort To Flank Britain's Tobruk Troops under Way

Tank Columns Fiercely Resisted by Defending Forces

Rommel's Thrust May Be Screen for Advance Elsewhere

By EDWARD KENNEDY

CAIRO, Egypt, May 27 (AP)—Strong Axis tank columns thrown forward in an effort to flank the southernmost point of the British Libyan triangle based on Tobruk and Ain El Gazala were engaged tonight by British armored forces in action so heavy as to indicate that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel may have opened a major offensive.

The first indication that Rommel was again on the march eastward, unfavorable though the season is for broad operations because of the intense heat, was given in the regular communiqué of the British imperial command which noted that his forces "including tanks in some strength" were advancing.

Then, in a subsequent special communiqué, British GHQ thus disclosed the fiercest action in some weeks had quickly developed:

Axis Force Advances

"During the night a large enemy armored force advanced from the west to the south of our positions around Bir Hacheim (which lies southeast of coastal Ain El Gazala and southwest of coastal Tobruk.) Early this morning the enemy was being engaged by our armored forces. No details of the fighting are available."

From other sources, however, it was learned that a fierce battle was raging along a line running south from Ain El Gazala.

The Nazis struck first at British positions near the Bir Hacheim waterhole about fifty miles below the coast, their tanks being met by heavy fire from British armored vehicles and anti-tank guns.

Rommel's forces were so disposed that he might thrust either northward or southward, in the kind of running warfare illustrated by last winter's campaign.

German air strength, which did not appear to have been greatly reinforced of late, seemed to be about 100 per cent concentrated on the British forward and rear positions.

Three Planes Brought Down

Ikkes Saving Tires By Delivering Eggs in Government Motor Car

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—Secretary of Interior Ickes explained to the Washington Evening Star today the use of an interior department automobile to deliver some of the famous Ikkes eggs produced on his farm near Olney, Md.

The matter had come under discussion when several persons telephoned the Star to ask him why an interior department automobile should be used.

Ikkes said that his use of the official automobiles is an open book, with nothing to conceal from A-card public. Mrs. Ikkes, who operates the egg business, has a private automobile, which she uses to transport eggs to market.

But, occasionally, to save an unnecessary trip to town, the secretary brings the eggs to the city with him in his official car, and then transfers them to a small interior department car, which takes them to market.

This saves tires and gasoline, Ikkes said.

Brazilians Clamor for Armed Action Against U-Boat Menace in Atlantic

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 27 (AP)—Agitation for Brazil to engage in active warfare upon Axis submarines operating off the Brazilian coast developed today as continuing and somewhat confused reports of U-boat activity reached the capital.

From Fortaleza came an unconfirmed report that an Italian submarine had surrendered to authorities at a northeastern Brazilian port. The craft was identified as the Pamplona, a name not listed in naval directories.

Usually reliable sources confirmed that two Axis submarines have been attacked within the last nine days off the Brazilian coast. Whether either of these actually was sunk lacked absolute confirmation today.

For a time today it was reported three Axis submarines had been (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5.)

WPA To Collect Scrap Metal on Maryland Farms

Campaign To Take in All Counties Except Four in West

BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP)—James F. Solley, of the War Production Board, said today a scrap metal campaign would be carried to 35,000 farms in Maryland within the next few days.

Solley, a representative of the WPA's Bureau of Industrial Conservation, explained the campaign was designed to cover every Maryland farm except those in the four western counties—Allegany, Frederick, Garrett and Washington.

Joseph C. Blandford, head of the U. S. Department of Agriculture War Board in Maryland, and Paul Mystrom, head of the Maryland county farm agents, are mailing an appeal for scrap to all Maryland farmers excepting in those western counties.

Appeal by Nelson

The appeal, written by WPA chairman Donald M. Nelson, will include a postal card which farmers owning scrap may send to the WPA office in Baltimore. The card will list the amount of scrap on each farm.

From those cards, the WPA officers will map collection routes. The WPA, Solley said, would handle the collection problem, sending trucks for the scraps and supplying labor to remove the metal. Pieces too large to be moved would be cut by the WPA crews.

Expect Big Collections

He said collections were expected to average about 500 pounds per farm with the total running around 9,000 tons.

The farmers would be notified in advance of the collection date, Solley said, and would be given the choice of selling their scrap metal or donating it to the government. In either event, he said, the scrap would be sold at standard prices. If the farmer designates he wants to sell his scrap, the money will be turned over to him. In the other cases, the money will go to the U. S. treasury to aid the war effort.

Solley said it was not necessary to stage the campaign in the four Western Maryland counties because of the activities of the junk dealers there. In Southern Maryland and in many parts of the shore, he continued, there were no industries needing the scrap with a resultant lag in collection by scrap dealers.

Lutherans Elect Lay Delegates to Kentucky Convention

GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 27 (AP)—The Maryland synod of the United Lutheran Church today elected ten lay delegates to the biennial meeting of the church at Louisville, Ky., in October.

The delegates are the Rev. R. C. Herlick, president of the synod; the Rev. J. Frank Fife, synod secretary; Dr. John L. Deaton and the Rev. R. L. Tabor, all of Baltimore; Dr. A. J. Traver of Frederick; Dr. O. F. Balckweider, the Rev. E. G. Goetz and Dr. J. Harold Mumper, all of Washington, D. C.; the Rev. Roy L. Shop of Hagerstown, and Dr. A. R. Wertz, president of the Gettysburg (Pa.) Lutheran Theological Seminary.

Bishop Helfenstein To Resign in 1943

BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP)—The Rt. Rev. Edward T. Helfenstein, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Maryland, announced today at the Diocesan convention that he planned to submit his resignation to the House of Bishops at the 1943 general convention of the church.

He said the resignation would be effective December 31, 1943, but added that he reserved the right to retire earlier if the war and resulting conditions "make it impossible to perform the duties of my office."

On his retirement Bishop Helfenstein would be succeeded automatically by the Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, bishop coadjutor.

Army Pilot Killed In Plane Crash

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., May 27 (AP)—An army pursuit plane crashed into an open lot near Hofstra college today, killing the pilot, Second Lieut. Raymond V. Wetzel, 21, of Gilman, Wis. The plane caught fire after the crash.

Army authorities said Wetzel had circled for a landing at a nearby field and then had suddenly pulled up to gain altitude. While he was swinging back toward the field, the plane apparently sideslipped, spectators said.

Wetzel was unmarried. He received his commission in the air corps last Dec. 12. Surviving is his father, Louis A. Wetzel, of Gilman.

First Lieutenant Harry M. Dillinger, captain, assigned to S-4 section, Headquarters Company.

Kenneth Franklin Spence to second lieutenant, assigned to company A, Eighth battalion, Hagerstown, replacing Second Lieutenant J. F. Elliott, resigned.

Sgt. Ralph A. Wasserman to second lieutenant, quartermaster corps, Baltimore.

McNutt Congratulates O'Connor on Good Job Of Md. Victory Board

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 27 (AP)—Paul V. McNutt, federal manpower commission chairman, congratulated Governor O'Connor today on the "good job the Labor Victory Board is doing" in Maryland and added that his group soon hopes to "come to grips" with problems pressing for attention.

O'Connor said McNutt's letter was a reply to an Executive communication placing the Labor Victory Board at McNutt's disposal as "Maryland's manpower representative."

O'Connor, in his letter last month, stressed that the Labor Victory Board was "extremely interested in helping to solve the problem of women in industry."

Until such time as the manpower commission actually is functioning, McNutt said "emphasis by your committee on manpower matters is entirely consistent with our policies. The commission has already recognized their urgency in the two meetings it has held."

O'Connor said the Labor Victory Board would meet here next Monday to consider steps which "might aid the war effort from all standpoints."

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Like Nazi claims of three Russian armies trapped and about to be annihilated in the Ukraine battle, Premier Tojo's assertion that a Japanese "victory" in the Coral Sea had left Australia defenseless must be classed as largely propaganda.

Both were designed primarily for home-front consumption. They represent that most favored figure of speech in Axis technique, hyperbole, the art of extreme exaggeration. They could not be expected to fool anybody but their authors' own people.

Just why such an attempt at befuddlement of the home folks should be deemed necessary at this time is not clear. The winds of rumor have been busy with tales of rising discontent in Germany; but not in Japan.

Tojo's Purpose a Mystery

Nor could General Tojo actually have expected his fire-breathing threats against India and Australia to bring those United Nations falling into Japan's lap like ripe plums. He had some other purpose in mind and if it was not to bolster Japanese morale, it must have been to add fuel to the fire of Australian, Chinese and Indian plans for more American troops, planes, tanks and guns.

Tojo knows that despite the impressive Japanese victories he could otherwise recite unchallenged, Japan's fate no less than Germany's is in process of being decided in Russia. The caution, not unmixed with implied threats, with which he dealt with Russian-Japanese relations testified to that.

No Attack on Russia

His reiterated promise that Japan would do her full share as a partner of Germany and Italy excluded a diversion attack on Russia, at least so long as Russia maintained her position.

There was some conjecture in London that Rommel actually was aiming at Egypt, at Iraq beyond and thus at the backdoor of the Russian Caucasus, although the difficulties and hazards of such a campaign at this season would be enormous.

May Attack in Syria

There also was a possibility that all he was now doing was intended to serve as a screen for an attack on British-held Syria via the island of Cyprus.

Some in London believed that Rommel was advancing with three armored divisions, two German and one Italian, but they pointed out, too, that the British tank brigades now had been rested and reequipped with American tanks since the battles of last autumn.

The British position was seen as generally better than that of last fall, considering the fresh troops and material poured into great bases built by Britain and the United States since the last campaign.

American Mechanics at Work

No U. S. troops are in the battle, but American observers are there and American-built tanks and aircraft form an important part of the allied equipment. American mechanics also are in North Africa, where they assemble newly-arriving planes and tanks and guns.

Rommel's total army, which also has been reinforced, was estimated in some quarters at more than 125,000 men.

Axis accounts of the new struggle in Libya were confined to the air activity. The Italian communiqué, which was more detailed than the German, reported German dive-bombing attacks on Tobruk, Italian attacks on Gambut, where it was claimed that several British planes were set afire and others damaged, and new attacks on the British Mediterranean island of Malta.

Father of Six May Win Army Discharge

PENDLETON, Ore., May 27 (AP)—Louis Tartaglione, 27-year-old seafarer, has been transferred by Adj. Gen. James H. Ulio from Pendleton field to a unit near his home in Brooklyn, Col. Frank W. Wright, base commander, reported today.

Application for Tartaglione's discharge from the army because of dependents is being made, Colonel Wright said. His case drew wide attention earlier in the week because of Mrs. Tartaglione's appeal to President Roosevelt, in which she asserted her husband was the father of six dependent children.

Poisonous Tablet Fatal to Child

POCOMOKE CITY, Md., May 27 (AP)—A verdict of accidental death by poisoning was given by Dr. John L. Riley, deputy state medical examiner for Worcester county, in the death Monday of 4-year-old Richard Gerald White of Pocomoke City.

Dr. Riley said the boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard White, entered the parked automobile of a Bloxom, Va., veterinarian, and swallowed a poisonous tablet taken from a bottle in the glove compartment.

He was taken with convulsions a few minutes later and died ten minutes after being admitted to Peninsula General Hospital in Salisbury.

Williams said Phillips operated with credentials belonging to Dr. James Herman Phillips, former army surgeon now in a Tennessee hospital. The ex-convict obtained these by pretending he was the real Dr. Phillips and claiming he had lost the documents, Williams asserted.

Phillips who came to Chico only two months ago, was earning $250 a month as a hospital doctor and rapidly developing a private practice.

lines moving up to the front. In the first phases of this action, at least three German Junkers planes were shot down.

Rommel's ultimate intentions caused intense speculation in London, where a military commentator declared that the Nazis had undoubtedly loosed "an offensive of some sort," but added it was too early to tell much more about it.

There was some conjecture in London that Rommel actually was aiming at Egypt, at Iraq beyond and thus at the backdoor of the Russian Caucasus, although the difficulties and hazards of such a campaign at this season would be enormous.

so long that he ran out of gasoline some distance from Lae—and a greater distance from his home base.

He crashed-landed on a beach thirty feet wide, pitted his stamina and ingenuity against hardships galore for nearly a month and arrived here to find this compensation: fifteen letters and two pictures from his wife, Barbara, and promotion to the rank of first lieutenant.

When I met him at his camp he said, "This may be where all the bombs are falling, but it's like heaven to me. I'm just waiting to get up in the air. I want to learn to fly again. They tell me I'm going up tomorrow."

The experiences of Pilot Ford's bomber crew were like something out of a movie. Here is his story:

Ford's Own Story

"We got what we went after at Rabaul but anti-aircraft fire crippled us and we cleared out on only one engine. We lost gasoline and our hydraulic system was knocked out, but by coaxing the plane and urging her along—sometimes less than 100 feet above water—we got her over land which we figured wasn't occupied by the Japanese."

We came down a few miles inland on a marsh. The only clear spot we could find had a tree in the middle. The field was covered with cane grass, which is pretty good for skidding.

"We hit going more than 100 miles an hour, skidded about a hundred yards and wrapped a wing around the three."

Victory in '44, Kettering Says

General Motors Chief Sure War Will Be Won in the Trenches

DETROIT, May 27 (AP)—Charles F. Kettering, General Motors corporation research chief, sees victory for the United Nations in the fall of 1944.

The war will end in the trenches, not in the air, he predicted today in an interview, and will be won with equipment already in use—not new inventions.

"I can't go along with these people who think we will win the war this year," Kettering said. "As I see it, we will win in the fall of 1944. It will take at least a year for the effect of our tremendous production efforts to be felt. If we can deliver enough stuff to England and help Russia hold out the rest of the summer, I can't see why we won't be able to send 1,000 bombers a day over Germany—every day."

"This war will end with an invasion of Europe—which means a return to trench warfare and field artillery. The airplane will pave the way for the invasion, the airplane will slow down German production, but actual invasion of Europe by troops will eventually be the deciding factor in winning the war."

Episcopal Church Votes $86,080 Budget.

BALTIMORE, May 27 (AP)—The annual convention of the Maryland diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church approved today a diocesan budget of $86,080.

In addition, a 1943 convention budget of $35,806.66 was approved. A committee of trustees of the St. James School Hagerstown, a church-supported institution for boys, filed a resolution asking the diocese to take over complete control and operation of the school and its property or withdraw all support.

The committee told the more than 200 delegates that the school unless entirely owned by the church, could not be operated without loss.

The convention was told that there were eighty boys enrolled at the school now and that a plan to hold a summer session to reduce the school course by one year had been outlined.

The Rt. Rev. Edward T. Helfenstein, D. D., bishop of Maryland, and the Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, D. D., bishop coadjutor, led the convention.

Lieutenant Makes Good As Ditch Digger

CAMP SHELBY, Miss., May 27 (AP)—Being very hot, one of two lieutenants directing a ditch-digging detail shed his shirt. A jeep suddenly appeared with a high-ranking officer.

There was no time for the lieutenant to get his shirt back on. He grabbed a shovel, leaped into the ditch, and began working furiously.

Finishing his inspection the officer said to the other lieutenant: "Keep your eye on that fellow with the shovel. He's a good worker."

Speeding Trucks

"With gas rationing such an important adjunct of the war effort, those who refuse to limit their speed to save gasoline and tire consumption do not deserve to enjoy the privilege of unlimited purchases."

"It already has been indicated in Washington that continued disregard may well result in a change by which trucks generally, or at least offending truck-owners, may be denied preference that is now theirs in the matter of purchases of gasoline or new or retreaded tires."

May Hold Miners' Job

Lewis was reported to have said Murray could continue as vice-president of the miners if he complied with all the constitutional requirements, but witnesses did not agree on the implications of that remark, inasmuch as there was no common understanding of where Murray's conduct would begin to contravene the mine union's constitution.

Murray, announcing his intention to leave the hall to keep other engagements, also said he did not want to provoke any disorder. Lewis asked if he wanted to leave because of conferences he considered of paramount importance to American labor.

Observers said Lewis, who yesterday called Murray his "former friend," took Murray's hand and Murray in exchange clapped Lewis on the shoulder in a parting gesture.

Thousands of Women Apply for 450 Officer Posts in American Army

Washington, May 27 (AP)—

When the District of Columbia office opened, the women were ready but the office wasn't. There was no pink slips, and when they arrived forty-five minutes later, fifty women were impatiently waiting.

College Girl First

The first in line here was Sybil Batchelor, 21, who studied science at the Women's College of the University of North Carolina. She has a radio assignment.

First to appear in New York was Miss Annabelle Barr, 27-year-old physician's secretary from New Rochelle, N. Y., who got up at 4:30 a. m. Miss Dorothy Klafier, 21-year-old bookkeeper, said she was there first but "it was so dark that I was afraid." She rode the subway to kill time until the office opened and missed first place in line.

Laughing Eyes, 29-year-old Creek Indian, was among 250 early ones in New York, in her full tribal costume. She said she was a graduate of Haskell Institute, Lawrence, Kans., and that her brother Straight Arrow, joined the navy last month.

on air operations alone, said: "Because the technical transport problems are more simple, the American air effort will start first, but when the time comes we are going to be ready to hit on land just as hard or harder than we do in the air."

Build Up Large Army

Determination of the United Nations to marshal in Britain armies large enough to outnumber the Nazis, observers said, was evidenced by the recent arrival of the largest American convoy of the war, and by the more recent arrival of a second but smaller contingent of Canadian troops.

Arnold went to American headquarters today for what was reported to be a discussion of the technical problems of placing American bombers and fighters in operation.

Somerville, immediately upon his arrival early this morning, conferred with British army ordnance and war transport officials.

Lewis, in reply, was understood to have said there was no comparison because only one of the three positions held had held was a salaried position, namely, the mine union presidency. Murray is holding two salaried jobs, but has announced he would not collect his $18,000 salary as vice-president of the UMW. The steel workers made him president last week at $20,000.

Dutch Freighter Sunk by Torpedo

WILLEMSTAD, CURACAO, DUTCH WEST INDIES, May 27 (AP)—

The freighter Flora of the Royal Dutch Netherlands steamship company has been torpedoed in the Caribbean, the Netherlands news agency Aneta stated late today.

The Flora is the fourth ship sunk in recent weeks out of this Dutch company's Caribbean fleet.

The Flora is a 1,417-ton freighter, built in 1921, engaged in trade between the West Indies and New York.

Aneta pointed out that ship sinkings in the Caribbean have affected transportation of food to the Dutch West Indies but described the situation as not dangerous. "Meatless days" have been introduced as a result of sharp curtailment of traffic with the Dominican Republic, whence Curacao normally obtains most of its meat.

Governor May Work

BOISE, IDAHO, May 27 (AP)—Gov. Chase A. Clark ordered state offices closed next week and asked employees to assist farmers in thinning sugar beets.

The governor said he was willing to work in the fields himself to help relieve the serious labor shortage.

The Political Trend Points to Changes

INFERENCES about the November elections are hardly worth much at this time, according to Mark Sullivan and he is right about that. This is for the reason that between now and election day events and conditions will arise that are not now foreseeable, any or all of which will have a strong bearing on the elections. The mood of the country will, of course, be much colored by the course of the war. Striking military successes would tend to help the party in power. On the other hand, paradoxically, Sullivan believes that if we have really serious setbacks that again might favor those in power, provided the country experiences an emotion of genuine concern.

Nevertheless there are signs and portents to be read today in the political skies indicating an unmistakable trend of public sentiment. The trend is toward a change. For one thing Congress is unpopular by its failure to respond to public demand for reasonable economy in government expenditures, and for various other reasons, one of which has been its lamentable propensity to surrender to group pressure in place of giving heed to the public welfare. Many of the onerous inequalities proposed in the new tax legislation have also contributed to a state of dissatisfaction.

Recent primary elections indicate that the voters are in a mood for a change. In Pennsylvania there were several unexpected upsets by which three old-timers on the Democratic side were summarily retired. Although that state has in recent years as well as a veteran Republican senator, succumbed to Democratic influences, the primary brought out twice as many Republican voters as Democratic, a fact not without significance. The upset in Democratic ranks of this congressional district can also be read as a sign.

Light voting in primaries has in past years been taken to indicate an apathy in the whole election process from the naming of candidates to their selection. This year, however, it may mean something entirely different. It may mean that voters have already made up their minds how they intend to vote in the final elections regardless of primary issues, even though they will be necessarily held in abeyance by reason of the overshadowing concern over the war situation.

The trend points unmistakably to the need for nominating men of character and integrity, and for keeping the campaign within the realms of reason and decency. The charge, for example, that voters who register a desire for a change would be aiding the enemy is not within either realm. That may not be pressed, however, owing to the disastrous backfire already experienced in its attempted employment.

Anyway, citizens should rejoice that they will continue to have primaries and elections and the right to discuss them and take part in them. The privileges should continue to be exercised as of yore for the very simple reason that they are part of the republican, or representative, system of government for which we are fighting.

Fort Meade Soldiers Really Buy Bonds

THE YOUNG MEN we have been sending over to Fort Meade and the others whom they have joined there are certainly War-bond conscious.

The soldiers at this army post have purchased more than half a million dollars' worth of the bonds in less than a month, according to announcement by Maj. Jay M. Holmes, retiring War bonds officer.

Lieut. William S. Sterns, Holmes' successor, reported sales of $516,604 and added that the "biggest thing worrying War bonds officers now is that men who want to buy bonds may be transferred elsewhere before we can put them on the line."

Lieut. Sterns said that $32,494 of each monthly payroll at the post had been set aside for purchases by the soldiers. Nine additional units joined the honor roll of 100 per cent subscribers Tuesday.

This is a splendid record, but it looms more significantly with the statement by Maj. Holmes that "Fort Meade has the best record of any army post in the country."

Boys, that's something—and a hint for some of the folks back home.

A Patent Question Of Growing Importance

AN INVENTOR'S RIGHT to the profits of his ingenuity is properly regarded in free countries as a fundamental right. The principal countries have gone farther and agreed that world protection of patents is necessary and desirable. A patent granted in one of these countries is protected from infringement in the other countries that are signatories to the international convention.

The patent question is before the people in the United States now in several important aspects. Are countries which are at war bound by the international convention? This question has been answered by Germany's seizure of useful Allied patents, and retaliation by the countries against which it is warring. The United States is completely justified in making use of any German patents that can be used to assure and hasten Allied victory.

The United States supreme court has now held that patent rights do not include the right to dictate the price of the patented article by licensing manufacturers, distributors and retailers only on condition that they charge a fixed price. In two cases of similar nature which were before the court, the decision was unanimous that this is a violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

Of growing importance is the question of how far a patent owner can go in using his rights to hold a useful process or invention from the market. Basically, this practice puts the people in the position of supporting a law which works against their interest. The country seems to be coming to the belief that a patent right must be applied on a reasonable scale, or forfeited.

Consolidation As a Cure

THE OUTCRY against extravagances, duplication and boondoggling in both the NYA and the CCC has apparently left an impression in official Washington. Something is to be done about it, according to word from the capital.

One reported cure, which is said to have been under consideration for some time, is that of consolidating both agencies in one. Paul McNutt, federal security administrator, is said to have approved the plan and an executive order is said to have been prepared for the president's signature. This report comes from Pearson and Allen, the columnists, who add that Aubrey Williams, the NYA director, is the likely head of the new combination.

A merger of the two agencies might present opportunities for cutting both down somewhat, but bureaucratic tenacity doesn't hold out a great deal of hope in that direction. Unpleasant odors cannot be turned into perfume by merely a change of name.

Obliteration Dates Can Be Set

ALEXANDER P. DE SEVERSKY, World war aviator and airplane designer, says that as soon as America gains control of the air it can set the date on which it could obliterate its enemies.

De Seversky told the "Nieman Journalism Foundation Institute on War Problems" at Cambridge, Mass., that the industrial potential of this nation is so great that we could say to Japan, when we gain air control, that "We are going to obliterate you on such and such a date and we could do it."

We can do everything by plane that we make up our minds to do. De Seversky added, even to transporting both men and equipment across both oceans.

Of course we can, and we will. The thing to do now is to hasten the day of setting the obliteration dates, one of which, if carried into effect, should be sufficient to halt the war.

The federal government is spending more than $3,000,000,000 a month, or almost as much as Hitler has been able to steal in a good year.

A revival of miniature golf courses in the East, as a result of gasoline rationing, is predicted. What, no tree sitting contests?

This rationing business may make Cupid's job a lot tougher. How far can you elope on three gallons of gas?

News that shirts may be shorter is of interest to everyone but the horse bettor who lost his a long time ago.

Can Women Be Friends?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Men say that women can NOT be friends.

Men say that they, the men, can be friends with other men, but that women are never satisfied with friendship with each other.

They say women are always looking around for a man who will desert another woman the moment a man comes along. I wonder if that's true. Frankly, I don't know whether it is or isn't. Sometimes I'm on one side of the fence, sometimes on the other.

I KNOW it is possible for a man and a woman to be friends. I know there are some women—entirely "feminine" women interested only in men—who cannot be faithful to women friends. But I wonder if what many men say about all women is true.

And if it IS true, why is it true? La Rochefoucauld, writing in a century when women were the toys and delights and manipulators of men, said: "The reason the majority of women are so little given to friendship is that it is insipid after they have felt love."

And Byron, who had few friendships with men but many love affairs with women, made that remark about love's being "a thing apart" with men but a woman's whole existence.

Was that true in Byron's day? Is it true today? In the days when La Rochefoucauld and Byron wrote, women were INSECURE. Unless they married, unless they were able to attach themselves to some man, they were forced into narrow lives. They were so utterly dependent on men in the sixteenth and eighteenth centuries that they were driven to treason toward other women.

But the women of today are not so insecure. They can delay marriage until they are overwhelmingly in love, they abandon it if it turns out unhappily. A man in the twentieth century is not longer a life preserver for a woman. She can swim by herself and need not be afraid. She has considerable freedom.

But is she free enough to be a friend to another woman? Times change—do women?

Synthetic Rubber Production Faces Many Difficulties

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 27—President Roosevelt's assurance that there will be some kind of tire substitute available before present tires are worn too thin does not mean that pleasure driving or waste of tires can be safely undertaken. It assumes that all exhortations toward tire conservation will be heeded just the same.

One of the principal difficulties with the rubber problem is that the public has been wasting rubber mileage. It has required strict gasoline rationing in the East and threats of the same thing for other sections of the country to impress the public with the importance of saving their tires.

When the president, who is familiar with all aspects of the question, says, therefore, that he thinks a solution is in sight it would be most unfortunate if the public took this as a signal to keep on using tires as usual.

The outlook for substitute tires depends on scientific developments as well as on whether priorities for the materials needed to build synthetic rubber plants for civilian use can be authorized. Up to now official Washington has been concerned almost entirely with the conservation of rubber for military purposes. It is clear that as of today there is no rubber in sight for civilian use until after 1943.

Other Factors Involved

But there are several things which may enter the picture. The scientists may find a way to produce in quantity a rubber that will be available for tires to be used at thirty to thirty-five mile-an-hour speeds. This is contemplated now but the question of how much materials can be allocated for factories that are to make civilian rubber depends on how the war itself progresses.

It takes steel, for instance, to make ships, and that's a number one priority. But it also takes steel to build certain machinery needed in synthetic rubber manufacture. The same thing is true of machine tools. There may come a time when steel can be allocated for purposes other than immediate military needs or when the piling up of goods on wharves due to lack of tonnage may slow up production of certain military weapons. All this has a bearing on when materials for rubber plants might become available.

The most important aspect, however, is scientific. There are many processes. Some are costlier than others. Some will require certain basic materials needed in war activities, and some can be supplied with little change-over of existing plants.

Decision on Processes

In the government here the decision has to be made as to what processes will be encouraged and what ones will be passed over. The military problem has necessitated a decision to push every form of scientific endeavor, but when it comes to filling civilian needs it is natural that there should be secondary consideration given.

But the political repercussions of the rubber problem may possibly force Congress to get behind some program that can help out the civilians. Already the congressmen who think alcohol that can be made from grain should be used as a base in making synthetic rubber are pushing that process. The scientists are not clear yet as to what the different programs can do or what the costs will be. Many laymen in Washington are offering opinions on the subject, and there has been a lot of charges and counter-charges concerning delays.

The fact remains, however, that until someone perfects a process which can be made at a relatively low cost and the government itself gets behind the quantity manufacture of

ALL HIS EGGS IN ONE BASKET

Rubber Situation Is Cited As Warning Of the Enormous War Effort Needed

By MARK SULLIVAN

synthetic rubber for civilian use, the public had better conserve very carefully and take most assurances with a grain of salt.

Finance a Problem

The truth is that today there is no synthetic rubber in sight for civilians for another couple years. Maybe tomorrow or next month someone will be able to announce a process that will give American consumers tires for use sometime toward the end of 1943. But even when a process is discovered—and some of the larger companies think they have it now—it remains for the government to make decisions as to whether it will finance such manufacture and whether it will set aside important materials needed either in the process itself or in the building of the necessary plants.

As a long range prediction, it might be assumed that American ingenuity will somehow solve the rubber problem for civilians, particularly if the administration and Congress are pressed to do something about it. There is always the danger to any American enterprises that the war may end suddenly, whereupon Far Eastern rubber would come in again, thus ruining any private investment risked in synthetic rubber. The government has to take all the risk as a matter of public interest, because private companies will not be inclined to gamble due to the possible competition from abroad after the war.

Maryland Farm Musings

By the Extension Service of the University of Maryland

Supplies of asparagus from the late states, which include Maryland, are estimated to be two per cent larger than the 1942 production and fifty-seven per cent greater than for the period from 1931 to 1940, according to the Maryland Crop Reporting Service.

Many Maryland farmers are sacrificing their woodland and are receiving little or no cash return from it because they are selling trees that are too small and young, according to C. F. Winslow, specialist in forestry for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

Spring Lake, Lorne, a purebred Holstein cow owned by the University of Maryland, is contributing her part to the national defense program. According to the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, this cow produced 10,412 quarts of milk and 833 pounds of butterfat during the past year. She was milked three times daily.

Maryland maple sugar producers, as a whole, experienced a rather profitable season this year according to the Maryland Crop Reporting Service. Producers received approximately $1.85 per gallon this year which was the highest price received since 1930. Sugar averaged about twenty-five cents per pound, also the highest price since 1930. However, the report shows that producers tapped the smallest number of trees on record. It was stated that because of the great demand many of the groves have been cut down for lumber.

Synthetic Rubber

There is synthetic rubber. This we will produce, factories are setting about it. Synthetic rubber, when we get to producing it in quantity, will be — so this writer is assured by one who knows the subject—better and less expensive than natural rubber. But how soon can we produce synthetic rubber in material quantity? There are varying estimates—none less than a year. In any estimate—about producing something wholly new, for which we have no experience and under wartime conditions of scarce labor and scarce raw materials and some inevitable confusion—in any estimate, it will be prudent to add

War Production Spurts Amazingly, Mallon Reports

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 27—A wallpaper manufacturer in the Midwest, who barely knew a bomb from a bum a year ago, made some of the incendiaries which Gen. Doolittle and his seventy-nine American bombardiers dropped on Japan.

His is another of the inside stories of how this country won its first battle of the war, the most important one for it, the Battle of Production.

It is the same inspiring tale explaining why nearly every phase of our production is already ahead of its blueprint schedule. America simply did not know how good it was until it got started.

This Mid-West wallpaper maker appeared in this column nearly a year ago. Then he had been an assistant to Donald Nelson and yet could not get a government contract for defense work. He spent eight months trying to find out what his paper plant could make.

Personal research brought him finally to the conclusion that not many people know how to load incendiary bombs. His company set to work to find out everything anybody knew about the subject. Blueprints of what they thought they could do were submitted to the War department and approved.

Speed, Efficiency and Economy

Conversion of the wallpaper plant into a bomb factory was not started until last winter. A circus tent had to be erected to cover construction work on one new building, because of the intense cold.

Less than a month later, a conveyor line was installed. The plant was ahead of schedule the first month and has continued since to increase the gap.

Originally it was figured the shells would cost forty cents apiece. In production, it was found the cost could be lowered to thirty cents, and more recently it has been lowered further by improvements in methods.

One improvement was the perfection of a typically ingenious American riveting machine to do work formerly done by hand. Girl workers simply dump the rivets into a hopper, step on a lever and the riveting is done.

The management says the girls are working a lot harder on bombs than they worked on wallpaper.

Many Developments Secret

Much information about our success on this front is censorable, which explains why our own appreciation of our accomplishments is so restricted.

Names, places and inventions cannot be fully given yet, but there will come a time, when this victory will be acknowledged as the greatest industrial triumph of all history, a testimonial to our way of life (which they said was outmoded) and to our ingenuity and patriotism (which they said were soft).

Labor deserves as much credit as industry, judging from the rather full evidence at hand. In a West Coast plane plant, for instance, production jumped twenty-five percent in the first week after Pearl Harbor, for no apparent reason. Investigation traced it solely to the workers working harder.

Psychology in war production is just as important as raw materials. Shortage of American energy would be an unbreakable bottleneck (as France found).

Labor Does Fine Job

The only machine without which you cannot produce, even if you have all others, is the mechanism of human enthusiasm. There have been some strikes and some slow-downs. They were disgraceful.

But the country can have pride in the fact that since Pearl Harbor, labor, as a whole, has been putting pressure on management for speed-ups. Labor, as a whole, is doing the job.

The evidence shows about eight percent of our unanticipated arms production is due solely to cessation of labor stoppages and strikes in one form or another.

Testimonials to American mechanical ingenuity on this community-quest front, continue to pile up upon those recently cited in this column:

A certain metallurgical engineer has discovered and put into successful operation a new spinner process for making shells, by which loading capacity at the plant could be increased 7,000 percent (yes sir, 7,000 percent).

Thousands of Others

A new process for making artillery gun barrels is in use which will enable us to make as many barrels in a month as England has produced since the war started, the process does away with casting.

Just like the wallpaper manufacturer are thousands of others, including:

The zipper plant which makes gas masks; hosiery mills and a bed company which do likewise; a cash register company making shell parts and fuses; a stove company making life-saving boats in the Midwest far from the sea and shipping them to the ocean.

It did not take a Hitler to do all this; it only required unity.

St. Mary's Church Will Hold May Procession Sunday

Thirty-eight Children Will Take Their First Solemn Communion

The first solemn communion and the annual May procession will be held Sunday at St. Mary's Catholic church. The thirty-eight little communicants, in the traditional white with the girls wearing a finger-tip length veil, will enter the church preceded by twenty-four flower bearers, for the 8:30 o'clock Mass.

Joan Coyle will lead the procession. The flower bearers, all first grade children will include twelve girls and twelve boys. The girls will be attired in formal dresses of various pastel colors and wear matching wreaths. The boys, in long white trousers and dark blue coats, will wear boutonnieres matching their partners' wreaths. The choir will sing appropriate hymns during the processional march from the school to the church and during the Mass.

The entire student body will march in the May procession to be held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Some will be dressed in the school uniform of blue and white and others will be in white with blue ribbons. Members of the Holy Name Society will form the guard of honor.

The statue of the Blessed Mother will be carried by the graduates and will be crowned by Miss Margaret Jean Spiker, preceding the sermon by the Rev. Lawrence P. Landrigan, pastor. Joan Coyle will be the crown bearer. May hymns will be sung during the procession from the school and around the church. The service will close with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Major Stegmaier Will Be Honored At Dinner Here

Ursuline Academy Seniors Plan Dinner and Dance for June 3

Major Maurice Stegmaier, home on furlough from Panama, will be the honor guest of members of the Senior Class of Ursuline Academy, at a 7 o'clock dinner June 3, at the Clary club. Major Thomas F. Conlon, toastmaster, will be introduced by Miss Doris Weber, class president. The Rev. Dominic Bonomo, St. Michael's church, Frostburg, will be the guest speaker.

Because of the war conditions the members of the class are having the dinner and dance together instead of the customary private parties at the close of the year. The dinner will be for the thirty-two members of the class and their escorts.

Jay Van and his orchestra will play for the novelty dance which will be held for the class and invited guests from 9 to 1 o'clock, following the dinner.

The committee on arrangements includes Miss Weber, Miss Jeanne Geatz, Miss Louise Mattingly and Miss Mary McDermott.

Other activities next week include "Class Night" at 8 o'clock June 1 in the academy cafeteria, when Miss Rosemary McKenzie will read the "class will;" Miss Louise Mattingly, the "class prophecy" and Miss Weber, the class history. A special musical program will be presented and refreshments will be served.

The graduation exercises will be held at 8 o'clock June 5 in SS. Peter and Paul church with the Rev. Boniface Weckman, O.F.M. Cap., awarding the diplomas.

The graduates will be honor guests of the Ursuline Alumnae at the Golden Jubilee breakfast June 7 following the 8:10 o'clock Mass. Mrs. Thomas R. Heyer will preside and welcome the guests.

Events in Brief

The Labour Mission Unit of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade will hold a rummage sale from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Saturday at 144 North Centre street.

The quarterly business meeting of the Past Matrons and Past Patrons Association of Western Maryland will be held at 7:30 o'clock this evening at Lonaconing. Miss Nyna Fey, assisted by the other officers, will confer degrees at the meeting which is for members of the association only.

A skating party will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in Crystal park by the Union Grove Girls 4-H Club.

In one Florida town recently the circus proved its patriotism when its actors, including trick dogs, clowns and ponies, moved from winter quarters, so that machine tools and workmen could move in.

Dialogue Will Be Feature of WSCS Meeting Today

District Organization Will Convene in Kingsley Methodist Church

The theme of the dialogue to be presented at the meeting of the Hagerstown District of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, to be held in Kingsley Methodist church here, beginning at 10 o'clock this morning, will be "For Christian Social Relations."

Mrs. Charles LeFew and Mrs. John H. Miller, both of Grace church, will discuss "International Relations and World Peace," and "The Christian Family and the Home," respectively. Mrs. S. A. Gurley, Centre street church, will speak on "Economic Relations." Mrs. Ruth Lee Andrews, Central church, will have "Alcohol and Other Narcotics" as her subject, while Mrs. A. L. Rogers, Centre Street church, will discuss "Minority Groups and Inter-racial Co-operation." Mrs. E. W. Yates, of Grace church, will deal with the "Christian Citizenship."

Corriganville Aid Society To Hold Banquet Tonight

First Mother-Daughter Social Event Will Be Held in Social Hall

The Ladies Aid Society of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church, Corriganville, will inaugurate the annual festivities, which center around the Christian home during the month of May, when it holds its first Mother-Daughter banquet this evening at 7 o'clock in the social hall of the church.

After the singing of America, the invocation will be given by Mrs. Evelyn Sides of Hyndman, Pa. The food will be served by the thirty-five members of the four consistories of the Hyndman-Wellersburg Charge. Dinner music will be played by Wilgar Orchestra of Ellerslie. The toastmaster will be Mrs. Florence Poorbaugh, chairman of arrangements and president of the Aid Society.

The principal speaker will be Mrs. William A. Eisenberger, wife of the minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Cumberland. Mrs. Eisenberger will speak upon a theme of immediate interest to all women during the present war-torn times.

Other vocal numbers include the "Mother" which will be sung by Miss Anna Jean Clites of Ellerslie. A quartette composed of Misses Mary Jane Wilgar, Anna Jean Clites, Sarah Levig and Mrs. Marie Adams, will sing "Golden Memories."

Specialties on the program include accordion music by Mrs. Amelia Ringler and Miss June Hensel; electric guitar selections by little Albert Nelson accompanied by his mother; appropriate readings by Miss Leanna Matthews and toastmaster numbers by Miss Lulu Hite.

Special recognition will be given to the oldest mother, the youngest mother, the mother having the largest family present, and awards will be made to those so chosen by the toastmaster.

The patriotic theme will be carried out with the tables forming a large white "V" and the favors will be of the red, white and blue colors. The event is expected to attract about 150 women from Corriganville, Ellerslie, Wellersburg, Hyndman, Frostburg and Cumberland.

IT'S HERE--THE "INVISIBLE" HAT

Dr. Myers Says To Know Adults, Know Children

Parents Who Put Them- selves in Youngsters' Places Most Helpful

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.
While in Texas, recently, I observed in every one of the five audiences I spoke to there—counseling groups, community and family-life-improvement groups, or parent-teacher associations—the presence of a certain army chaplain stationed at the hospital of Camp Bliss.

At the end of the third meeting I asked him what he could get out of my talks. He replied: "In the first place, I have a boy seven years old. Besides, everything you are saying applies to my job with soldiers. We find that the chaplain's job is largely one of counseling, of talking with men about their worries and emotional disturbances."

As you indicate constantly in what you say and write in your column, we need to be able to put ourselves in the place of the other person, child or adult, in order to understand him and win his respect and confidence. When we are able to see a little as he sees, feel a little as he feels, and understand a little as he understands, we are beginning to reach the place where we are helpful to him."

Strict Discipline

Recalling some of my personal experience while in uniform during the World War I, I asked him if many soldiers and officers suffered because of needless disregard of them as persons, by their officers or higher-ranking officers.

"Yes, indeed," he replied. "While I am sure there must be great improvement over such relationships during the first World War, there is still much to be wanted."

"Well," I rejoined, "I suppose chevrons, bars and other insignia do help bring out some of the less desirable attitudes in those who wear them. Nevertheless, there must be strict discipline."

"Yes, you are quite right," the chaplain answered, "but most of the vexations to soldiers do not come from necessary discipline." He might have said, "to soldiers or anybody else."

Human Nature To Transgress

Then we agreed that since human nature is as it is, causing all of us to transgress against the personality of others, when off guard, we might as well make the most of it when we are the victims.

We also agreed, therefore, that we might help the soldier or any other youth who thinks his personal dignities are often needlessly dishonored, to learn to hold up his head and to be too proud to be annoyed or hurt by such treatment.

Whether a domestic servant, clerk in a store, student in a high school class, or soldier in the ranks, we can be most efficient, comfortable and happy if we try to find out just what is expected of us and then try to do it the very best we can, no matter how much we might dislike the attitude of the "boss."

We can be obedient and faithful and still keep our self-respect. We might at times even be able to see a bit of humor in the human frailties of the "boss" who annoys us.

Solving Parent Problems

Q My seven-year-old boy is always losing his things and leaving them somewhere, such as hat, coat, sweater. Can anything be done about it?

A Yes; when you know where the article has been left make the child go back for it, if possible. Otherwise, let him know that for every such delinquency he will have to pay a penalty of sitting in a chair for exactly an hour. A good substitute might be to have him write about three hundred times, "I forgot my coat," or the like, the purpose being to make painful the undesirable act. It is important to correct this habit now, otherwise it may grow into a great nuisance by and by.

Her Husband Flirts

Dear Miss Fairfax:
My mother-in-law, who is an invalid, lives with us, and as I'm not very strong either, we keep a maid. My husband flirts with every maid I get, and he doesn't stop to think how embarrassing it is for me and the children. If I mention it to him, he just laughs and says it's no harm to have a little fun. But it hurts me, and I don't think this kind of behavior is a good example for the youngsters.

WORRIED MOTHER

I don't wonder you think this is a bad example for the children. Just one word expresses it—common. It's not unlikely your husband may encounter a come-back from some husky young woman who realizes this form of attention is anything but flattering. Not long ago I had a letter from a maid who was annoyed by the boss's unwelcome attentions. Her reply was not the little kiss he asked for, but a bucket of water, hurled at his head.

Salisbury Family Changes Hobby

SALISBURY, May 27 (AP)—Ten years ago Mrs. Harry Wachsmuth began collecting Indian head pennies, and it grew to become a family hobby.

The Wachsmuths have a new hobby now. They turned in 5,625 of the Indian head pennies to the Salisbury post office for three $35 war bonds, and said they would start "collecting war bonds."

"Indian head pennies have been pretty scarce for collectors in the last couple of years," Mr. Wachsmuth said, "but we decided the government could use them better than we could."

Foreman Solves Detour Problem

CLEVELAND, May 27 (AP)—The street department put up a detour sign while repairmen were doing a resurfacing job, but motorists didn't pay much attention to the warning. A foreman solved the problem by erecting a substitute sign which read:

"Good Americans will detour—dam Japs won't." Everybody is detouring now.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE
TIBBY HAD resolved to be nice to Tommy, even if he would not be nice to her. Now this resolution was strengthened. Tibby did not realize—or would not have admitted it, if she had—that Wayne's offer of the beautiful silver ship and his proposal of marriage had anything to do with this strengthening. She had to make up her mind what she was going to do about it—the silver ship and Wayne's proposal. Maybe if she and Tommy still had been friends everything might have been different. Maybe if she made one last effort to go back to that old friendly basis she might be able to decide what to do.

Of course if Tommy did not care if his old playmate got engaged to someone else it was foolish for Tibby even to consider him, or how he would feel about it. She had a sort of hunch, as she usually had in connection with Tommy, that even if he did not care—in one way—that he would in several others.

For instance, Tommy might think that Tibby was marrying Wayne for his money. She would hate to have him, or anyone, think that, since it most certainly would not be true. Steena had admitted she might have done that very thing when she first had dated Wayne Courtwright, but if Tibby decided to accept Wayne, his money would not have anything to do with it. She almost wished that he did not have quite so much money; it was rather frightening.

She knew, deep down in her heart, that she was much better suited to be the wife of a doctor, having had that training all her life as the daughter of a country doctor than the wife of a millionaire. Steena now would know just how to fill that bill; she would simply go to it. But Tibby was afraid she would always feel inadequate. She would feel as if she did not belong in Wayne's world. It was one thing to visit it for a thrill, for excitement, but to live in it all the time was another.

To go back to Tommy, he not only would think she was marrying Wayne for his money, but he would think that Wayne was entirely too old for her, not just in years, but in experience. Tommy practically had said as much that night he had met Wayne and had showed his disapproval of him as a friend for Tibby. Let alone a husband. On the other hand, Wayne had remarked, when Tibby had said she was not engaged to Tommy, that he was glad because Tommy was entirely too young. Wayne had not meant in years altogether, either.

Tommy was too young because he did not know enough about love. If he had he might have won Tibby, if he had picked a more romantic spot in which to propose, if he had not withdrawn his proposal, himself, and his friendship so quickly. Wayne was experienced enough when it came to love making. How else could he have chosen such a method of approach, such means for persuasion as a beautiful silver ship that could take one away from all earthly things up into the very heavens? By this, too, he had employed the even more subtle measure of making her, therefore, feel obligated, almost trapped. How could she refuse such a royal gift? How could she dare refuse the honor bestowed upon her by a proposal of marriage from a man like him?

Oh, yes, Wayne knew all there was to know about love and romance. He had even assured Tibby that it need not matter whether she was sure or not that she loved him. Since he was so wise in every other way, no doubt he was right in this as well, for Tibby certainly was more confused than ever before, more uncertain, more in a muddle.

She wished there were someone to advise her. She could have talked with Marg, but she knew her friend was too confused herself these days in trying to come to her own decisions. She could not, of course, discuss such a personal problem, with the many personal complications, with Steena. She had no other close girl friends, except back home. She had no close friend at all, now that she had lost Tommy.

If only she could have talked it over with him, but that WAS nonsensical. She already had guessed what his reaction would be; he would heartily disapprove of her marrying Wayne, just as he had disapproved of her dying or becoming an air hostess. Tommy, it seemed, disapproved of most everything she did or thought of doing. That surely showed plainly enough that there never could have been anything between her and him, even had Tommy had all Wayne's experience in love making.

She would just have to decide without any help from anyone. It would have to be a solo decision. But she could be nice to Tommy, anyway.

She was no nice to him the next time he came to date Steena that Tommy wondered what on earth had happened. She did not try to run away, or act stiff and unnatural. She seemed glad to see him, even though she knew he had come to see Steena, or was supposed to have as of course he hadn't really. She wanted to know how he had been and how his work was progressing, what he had heard lately from the folks back home and how he was again.

It was as if she really were interested, almost as if she cared. So Tommy confided later in recounting to Steena how nice Tibby had been to him.

"I don't see why you wonder what on earth has happened," Steena replied, her green eyes narrowing shrewdly. "It's quite evident. Our campaign is taking effect. It is working, even much better than either of us could have anticipated," she added with a note of triumph.

It was working for her, too. The last time she had been out with Wayne he had asked her what she would like to have him buy her. He had said he wanted to give her something. He had not said why, but he had been most insistent.

Naturally Steena could not know that Wayne felt he owed her some sort of gift. He had taken up quite a lot of her time. Perhaps he thought she ought to have something to remember him by. If Tibby accepted the silver ship—and Wayne himself—he would not be dating Steena any more. When Wayne made an ending to any love affair, since he was so experienced in all the intricate ways and means, he usually presented the lady with a suitable present.

Steena had said he might give her anything he chose, because anything he chose would BE what she would want. She could have told him what she would have preferred, a lovely solitaire for the RIGHT finger of her left hand, for instance, but her reply, she felt, was much more tactful.

Apparently Wayne had been satisfied; maybe he had been flattered, as she had wanted him to be at her leaving the choice and selection up to him. He had assured her that she would receive the gift the following week as he would attend to it almost immediately.

This certainly looked as if Wayne—as well as Tibby, from what Tommy had just recounted—were waking up to the fact that if he had serious intentions he ought to be getting around to declaring them. Steena had let Wayne know that she had been getting a rush from young Dr. Dare. She had implied that it was a very serious rush that undoubtedly would lead to even more serious complications.

"The poor boy," she had told Wayne, "has lost his head. I don't know what I am going to do about him." She had said it lightly, but there had been her dates with Tommy in proof, and the funeral smell in the apartment, and the phone calls each day, which she also had reported.

"It seems to me then," Tommy said, bringing Steena abruptly back to the present and face to face with the future, "that we ought to cut this all out, this campaign, as you call it." The truth was that Tommy was sick of it—having to remember to phone Steena every day, to order flowers, which she had insisted be charged to her account at the florist's, to pretend to come out to see her when he only came in hopes of getting a glimpse of Tibby. He not only was sick of it, he did not like it, since he did not like deceit in any form or fashion.

"That would be the worst thing we could do!" Steena declared with absolute conviction. "You just leave everything to me, as you have, Tommy. I promise you I'll fix it." She had a plan that would indeed fix—and settle—everything for each of them.

Constitution of the Nervous System Is Factor That Impairs Body at Work

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Yesterday we inquired into the physiological definition of work as performed by that not very efficient machine, the human body. We found there were three classes of work—maximal, heavy and moderate; that maximal, heavy work could only be performed for a very short time; that rest periods were imperative; that heavy work might be maintained for eight hours, but that rest periods made for economy and that moderate work—which is what most factory laborers perform—makes little drain on reserve muscular energy, oxygen consumption, heart rate and blood pressure.

Today we wish to inquire into the things that impair the human machine in attaining maximum efficiency and how they can be overcome. Naturally this will concern mostly the subject of moderate muscular work. We have already said that maximum work cannot be possibly performed without long rest periods and there is more efficiency in heavy work with short rest periods interspersed.

Strain Causes Fatigue

The situation can be illustrated by the example of factory workers who work standing at benches and using small groups of muscles of the hands and arms. It must also be remembered that they use the muscles of the eyes. These people do not become fatigued on account of an excessive strain put upon the whole muscular system nor on account of strain on the heart and blood pressure. Very slight adjustments in physiological processes are required.

They become fatigued because of the strain of standing, which alone is fatiguing, and also because of the constitution of the nervous system which becomes tired from making repetitive movements and strain from the eyes. In other words, if a machine could do this work, it would never have to stop until the parts actually wore out or unless it became overheated. But since the human body has a nervous system attached to its machinery, fatigue and reduced efficiency in productivity inevitably take place.

Lunches Help Production

Various factories have experimented with methods of overcoming this fatigue in a purely selfish endeavor to increase their production. It has been found that in a shoe factory where the workers eat three ordinary meals a day, production was increased by providing a forenoon and an afternoon lunch of a glass of milk and a piece of cake. These lunches and rest periods prevented decrease in productivity, that showed up inevitably in the latter half of the morning and afternoon. There is undoubtedly a physiological factor in this too in the worker's feeling of good will.

In another factory it was found with experienced women operators that shortening their working day by half an hour or an hour and changes in the temperature and humidity and even lunches did not greatly affect their hourly output. What did effect their output was frequently spaced rest periods which allowed the workers to sit down, lie down or to be out of doors.

Recreation, even from maximal work, occurs in about ten minutes in most subjects. Recreation from heavy and moderate work therefore is proportional. Recovery from the emotional strain of continued work is a subject about which very little is known. Neither the physiologist nor the psychologist can provide the answer and probably an analysis of past associations and environmental conditions would be necessary.

Questions and Answers

Reader—How many calories are in beer? How does it affect people on a diet?

Answer: A bottle of beer contains about 200 calories. Beer, on account of its alcoholic and carbohydrate content, has one of the highest caloric values of any of the beverages. As to what it does to a diet, I presume you mean a reducing diet. It blows it all to smithereens.

Son Opens Message
Saying He's Missing

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 27. (AP)—
A telegram from the War Department came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Mayfield today telling them their son, Don, was missing in action on Bataan.

But they weren't alarmed—the message was opened by Don himself.
He had been on the peninsula in a tank battalion but had been sent home because of illness before Bataan fell.

Say Nation Has Hit Victory Pace

Executives Told They May Enjoy Great Prosperity
after War

CHICAGO, May 27. (AP)—American mill and factory executives were told last night that industry has swung into the stride of victory and that they may enjoy a great prosperity in the wake of the war.

William P. Withrow, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, asserted that "in five short months, under the capable leadership of Donald M. Nelson, this country has hit the victory pace, and is putting the tools of warfare into the hands of our fighting men on a scale which makes victory certain."

Ship Built in 45 Days
Murray Shields, economist of the Irving Trust Company, New York, stated that "there is much to support the optimistic view that after the post-war readjustment slump is out of the way, we probably will enter a period marked by an in-

ARMY'S NEWEST FIGHTER PLANE

Shown in flight is the United States Army's newest fighter plane, the Curtiss Warhawk, successor to the Tomahawk and Kittyhawk, which are now in combat on widely-scattered fronts. This is the first Army combat plane to be powered with the new American-built Rolls-Royce engine. No details on the plane's performance have been released.

creasing standard of living, active and expanding industries and perhaps a really great prosperity."

Both outlined their views in addresses prepared for a meeting

sponsored by the National and Illinois Manufacturers Associations.

Withrow reported that an Oregon ship yard completed a ship from "keel to captain" in sixty days.

that a new process now being developed would facilitate construction of a cargo ship in forty-five days, and that he left the West coast "mumbling superlatives."

Mills Break Records

He related that newsmen touring war plants under the auspices of the association were describing the "Miracle of the Factory Front."

"These correspondents have seen battleships being produced a year ahead of schedule, great oil tank-ers built in one week, the great automobile industry converted to full war production in three months," he added.

Withrow said 60,000 airplanes by January, 1943, "is no longer talk," that we already are exceeding the Axis in tank output, that steel mills are making new records daily and that the machine tool industry's production is seven and one-half times its normal volume.

In addition to washing, soap can be used for an almost endless number of useful purposes, one of which is to locate leaks in gas-pipe joints.
The suspected joint is plastered with suds and if gas bubbles through, there's your leak.

Moose Women To Meet

Frostburg Chapter, No. 221, Women of the Moose, will meet Thursday evening to elect new officers.

Following the business meeting, there will be a birthday party, honoring Mrs. Joseph E. Robertson, Mrs. Edna Enrie and Mrs. Stella Mengher. The chapter program will be in charge of Mrs. Anna Quarucci.

Stores To Close Saturday

Practically all Frostburg stores will be closed Memorial day, E. Ben Myers, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, stated.

Myers added that several merchants were considering closing every Wednesday at noon during June, July and August.

P-TA Completes Work

The Parent-Teacher Association of the college elementary school closed the work of the present year Monday evening with the installation of officers for 1942-43.

Mrs. Simeon W. Green and the Rev. Van H. Beeman were elected president and vice-president, respectively. Mrs. Charles Wiebecke, treasurer, and Miss Henrietta Serge, supervising teacher of grade three, secretary.

The executive board includes Mrs. George Cutler, Mrs. James Taylor, Mr. Melvin Henry, and Mr. Charles Ackermann. The nominating committee was composed of Charles McFarland, chairman, Mrs. Joseph Brode, Mrs. Arthur Bond, and William Hickey.

Dr. Wade spoke briefly of the importance of the social, psychological, and physical preparation of pupils for entering school. The "summer round-up" chairman, Mr. Andrew Nelson, assisted by Mrs. James Elias and Mrs. Walter Mackay, distributed blanks furnished by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Jaycees Elect

The board of directors of the Frostburg Junior Chamber of Commerce met last evening and elected the following officers to serve for the ensuing year:

Charles N. Hill, president; Richard Barnett, first vice-president; Ray L. Layman, second vice-president; Dr. Leo Minkoff, secretary; Arthur S. Rowe, treasurer; (re-elected) and J. Edgar MacMannis, state director.

The new officers will be installed at the annual dinner, tentatively scheduled for June 23. Hill will be the fourth president of the local organization.

Vernon Poole was elected a member of the board to serve the unexpired term of Arden Hanes.

Other members of the board are George O. Hager, Gerald Groves, Jesse Jacobs, Joseph Lyons and Ralph M. Race.

Civic Council Meets

The Moorefield Inter Civic Club Council, representing twenty-one organizations, requested the mayor and town council to release Town Sgt. Ted Sager from his duties as water and sewer workman in order that he might spend full time patrolling the streets. It was pointed out that his duties prevent him from making adequate patrols on the streets.

A resolution was sent to each member of the board of education and to the county superintendent of schools as follows:

"Resolved that unless a fire escape is provided at Moorefield graded school by the beginning of the fall term of school that the Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company be requested to condemn and close the building until this safety device is secured and that a copy of this resolution be sent to each member of the board of education and to the county superintendent of schools."

Board members are awaiting specifications from the insurance underwriters for construction.

The Council, which met at the home of Mrs. William J. Teets, Monday night, agreed to co-operate with the town in the proclamation of "Clean-Up-Week" the first week in June.

Present and Past
GraduationsU. S. Senator Speaks at Keyser High Commencement Exercises

KEYSER, W. Va. — Keyser high auditorium was filled to capacity Tuesday night when United States Senator Harley M. Kilgore addressed the graduates at the fifty-third annual commencement of Keyser high school. The commencement address began with a comparison of the graduating class of today and thirty-two years ago.

Senator Kilgore said, "every boy and girl under the present system not only has an education, but has it thrust upon them. This is the foundation of life. People must be educated to maintain a democracy, for it is a government by the people."

Awards made to students during the school year were announced at the close of the program.

In the Upper Potomac Literary Association contest Jay Johnson placed first, winning a two-year scholarship to Potomac State school. Betty McNeill was chosen the best citizen for the year.

Keyser high was represented in the West Virginia Golden Horseshoe contest by Elizabeth Ann Cook, Katrina Swecker and Michael Maury. In the junior high literary contest Naomi Barr placed first in oration and Ruth Ann Shear, first in reading. The D. A. R. award for the best history student in the eighth grade was presented to Sally Ann Giffin.

All-Around Students Chosen

The American Legion Citizenship awards for the best all-around boy and girl in the eighth grade went to Mary Seiver and Robert Browning. K. K. Maxwell, representing the Olive Branch Lodge, Knights of Pythias, presented the annual citizenship pin to Betty McNeill and George William Keller.

Dr. A. L. Crabb Warns Graduates Of Tendency To Become Melancholy

Dean of George Peabody
College Addresses State
Teachers Seniors

FROSTBURG, May 27.—The annual commencement exercises of State Teachers college, held Wednesday morning, 10:30 o'clock, in the presence of a large company of friends and relatives of the graduates, was presided over by President John L. Dunkle and featured with an address by Dr. A. L. Crabb, dean of George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. Crabb began his address by stating that he was aware that there is a tendency to become over-melancholy in the serious times in which we live. He ignored the war purpose, he said, because the graduates were young, hopeful and ambitious and would face a future with more of peace than war. He spoke in a humorous vein throughout the address, telling a number of delightful stories to drive home the point that the young graduates would avoid a lot of trouble in their future careers if they learned to gracefully adjust themselves to whatever conditions they might be confronted.

Program Revealed

The program was as follows: Gaiety from "The Bartered Bride" and procession, "Festival March," by the college orchestra under direction of Joseph Shockley; day salute; "Star Spangled Banner" audience; prayer, the Rev. Ralph W. Woot, pastor of First Methodist church; "Emperor Waltz," The Maryland Singers and college orchestra, directed by Prof. Maurice Matteson; address, Dr. Crabb; "Nocturne," The Maryland Singers; conferring of degrees, Dr. Dunkle, assisted by Prof. Newman Wade and Prof. Ivan C. Diehl; awarding of diplomas to forty graduates, Miss L. Jewel Simpson, assistant superintendent of the state board of education; State Teachers college song, entire student body and the recessional march by the college orchestra.

President Dunkle presented a special award to Miss June Lee Shade for completing four years of private study in music and voice and announced that every member of the graduating class was awarded a projection machine operators' license, certifying that they are capable of taking care of, and operating each of the machines used in the college for visual education, including lantern slide projector, opaque projector, motion picture projector and other similar machines.

President Dunkle announced that the summer school will open June 22 and continue for ten weeks. He said that the college was engaged in an accelerated program to enable students to complete four years of college work in three. This is important, he said, because there is at present a demand for 400 teachers in Maryland while the teacher colleges are turning out only 150 a year. He said that juniors were filling the gap.

Shades of David And Goliath

DENVER. (AP)—Deputy Sheriff R. George Woods of suburban Eagle-Wood, believes the "beanie" he took away from a gang of boys, 12 to 14 years old, is the granddaddy of all bean shooters.

The thing is made from a forked tree branch two inches thick and 15 inches long, with wide bands of inner tubing two feet long to furnish the propulsive power for large stones. It required the strength of two patrolmen to stretch the rubber strips to their full limit of more than four feet.

Important Saving

FREDERICK, May 27. (AP)—The top and rear seat of an automobile owned by a Baltimore man burned before firemen from the Independent Hose Company got things under control.

"But we saved his tires," one fireman reported proudly.

Just Bruised Tire Arouses One's Ire

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Pulling to the curb for a stop, a city street bus struck an automobile and crowded it into a post.

The bus driver alighted. The automobile driver alighted. "Your car's not damaged much," said the motorman.

"Darn the car," returned the autoist. "Look how you bruised that front tire!"

Gone with the Wind— And Not a Movie

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Eugene Booth believes that he set a record getting into and out of business.

For six years he and his wife saved money to buy a business. Finally they took their savings, $1,600, and made a down payment on a cafe in Pryor, Okla., and signed a mortgage for $2,000.

That was at 9 a. m. At 4 p. m. after Booth had taken charge of the restaurant and was counting the first day's receipts, a tornado struck, killing a customer and demolishing the place.

Thief Can't Eat Chickens He Stole

DEXTER, Kas., May 27. (AP)—George Ward, farmer, doubts that the thief who stole his chickens will enjoy eating them. Ward found the upper plate of false teeth which the thief lost in the chicken house.

THE BACKGROUND COMES FIRST

When you are not feeling well, and are tempted to buy some highly advertised remedy for which great claims are made, ask yourself a few simple questions. What is the background of the manufacturer of the remedy? Has he been educated in medicine, pharmacy or chemistry? Are the claims made for his remedy based on scientific fact? Is it not possible that you have been influenced by exaggerated statements? Don't risk your health by experimenting with medicines of unknown value. Consult your physician. He alone is qualified to advise you in matters pertaining to health. If he prescribes, bring his prescription to us. It will be filled exactly as ordered.

Heydrich Wounded In Assassination Effort in Prague

Shooting of Gestapo Chief May Bring Furious Reprisals

LONDON, May 27 (AP)—Reinhard Heydrich, acting Reich's protector of Bohemia and Moravia and Gestapo purge master for Nazi-occupied territory, has been wounded in an assassination attempt in Prague and the threat of swift and terrible reprisal executions hangs heavily tonight over old Czechoslovakia.

One Berlin broadcast said Heydrich's wound was not expected to prove fatal but gave no other indication of the seriousness of his condition. Another said the attack occurred at 1 p. m. today on the Prague-Berlin highway but within the limits of greater Prague.

$25,000 Reward Offered

Whoever fired the shot, which Czech circles here feared would touch off an unprecedented wholesale slaughter of their countrymen, apparently escaped. The German radio said a reward of 10,000,000 crowns (worth $25,000 at the last quoted exchange rates a year ago) would be paid for his capture.

Martial law was clamped on immediately under which Karl Hermann Frank, Heydrich's deputy, announced:

"No civilian is permitted to leave his home between 9 p. m. tonight and 6 a. m. tomorrow."

"All public bars, cinemas, theaters, and public entertainments will be closed, and all transport stopped."

"Anyone found on the streets during these hours and who does not stop when called upon to do so will be shot immediately."

A later announcement said: "Whoever hopes to hide the guilty persons or who gives them any kind of help or security, or secretly withholds any knowledge of the crime will be executed."

Fear Mass Executions

A Czech government source here expressed grave fears that the shooting of Heydrich will result in mass executions of innocent people on a scale unprecedented—even in this war.

Czech circles here expressed the belief that the shooting either was in protest to Heydrich's order compelling Czech youths for war service on the Russian front or against his announcement last night that there would be a reorganization of the administrative set-up in Bohemia and Moravia. This was interpreted as an indication that Adolf Hitler had decided to incorporate the protectorate within the Reich proper.

Czechs already have learned from Heydrich, himself, of the stern drumhead justice and iron-fisted measures of suppression which they can expect from any revolt against their masters.

Within two weeks after Heydrich came to Bohemia and Moravia last September as protector, charged with putting down unrest, 250 Czechs had died before German firing squads.

Many Women

Others were dressed as though they were ready for an afternoon of bridge. Some had come directly from a defense plant—a little worried that their employment in a vital industry might hurt their chances for appointment to the WAAC officers candidate school.

Recruiting officers were surprised at the number of applicants in the older age group. The majority were young (and good-looking) but many candidates were in the 30-40 group and some seemed to be nearing the 50-age limit.

One woman had been a telegraph operator for twenty years and was hopeful that her years of experience would stand her in good stead if she were selected.

All that was done today was the distribution of application blanks. But they peppered Lieut. E. A. McNair, the recruiting officer, with many questions.

"Will we be liable to go overseas?" one girl asked him.

"You will be subject to transportation anywhere," he replied.

"Oh, I don't think I'm brave enough for that," she admitted sorrowfully.

But the news was good to two other young girls standing in front of the desk.

"Oh, that's fine," said one.

Willing To Travel

"That's just what we want," echoed the other.

One young woman, a skullduggery perched upon her head, asked if near-sightedness would be a deterrent, pointing to her thick-lensed glasses.

Lieut. McNair simply told her that all candidates would be given intelligence and physical tests.

"What about this High School Education?" asked another, pointing to the requirement in the blank demanding a high school education or its equivalent.

"I was half a unit short of graduating," she said, answering her own question. She put the application blank back on the desk, saying dejectedly, "guess it's no use my taking this."

Some wanted to take a couple of forms along—for their friends.

Lieut. McNair had no answer for that personal application was necessary. No girl got two blanks.

60 Recruits for Area

The recruiting officer estimated that sixty candidates would be sent

Bonuses as High

coin heads, would have paid $4,428,916 more in taxes for the period 1939-41, inclusive, were it not for bonuses and establishment of a $1,000,000 trust fund. Bonuses in 1941 totalled $2,000,000, Toland said.

The company turns out electrodes and welding equipment.

Earlier in the day, Toland introduced photostatic copies of checks showing bonuses payments, running from $3,000 to $5,000 for $30 and $45 a week employees and from $10,000 to $50,000 for officials and higher salaried executives.

Lincoln, head of the company and president of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, said that he had started the bonus system in 1934 with "my tongue in my cheek" but discovered it worked as well in sparking the "genius" of his employees and cutting costs that the company was able to outsell its competitors.

Wages Kept Low

He reported that the wages of his employees were kept low purposely so that the company could "skate through a tough period without going broke," but said the extra compensation through bonuses made his employees better paid than those of other companies doing similar work.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) commended Lincoln for cutting costs and increasing efficiency through the bonus system, but expressed belief that some of the payments were "out of line" and that a "ceiling" would be raised over bonuses "because they have the effect of evading the corporate taxes."

Lincoln challenged figures introduced by Toland, purporting to show wide differences between the factory cost and the selling price of company products, and said that they failed to include the bonuses, administration, overhead, and overtime expenses, and that the actual profit was close to ten percent.

Roosevelt Asks

the excess population must be provided for by new Public construction "largely temporary in nature" and designed for workers in the lower income brackets.

$1,020,000,000 for Housing

"Thus far," he said, "Congress has shown a full appreciation of this need and has had made 1,020,000,000 in appropriations available for the construction of war housing. This figure reduces to its true perspective when we realize that it is less than one percent of the funds made available for war purposes."

"The allocation of war funds for the shelter of the men and women leaving their homes to serve our war industries is a wise and established national policy."

That policy should continue. War production is now increasing in geometric ratio. Plant capacities are expanding faster and faster. Consistent reports from all over the country indicate a rising need for housing, running far ahead of the supply and threatening seriously to reduce the effective use of these plants unless remedied at once."

The twenty rent ceiling areas were notified March 2 to put the ceilings in effect June 1.

Henderson Forced to Act

"In no area it was found that the price administrator's recommendation as to a reduction of rents had been met for the community as a whole," the price agency said. "Since the areas have not met Mr. (Leon) Henderson's recommendations in the sixty days provided by the statute, the price administrator was required to make federal control effective."

In fourteen areas, rents were ordered restored to the level of April 1, 1941.

"Beginning June 1," the statement said, "as a general principle with a few exceptions, tenants are to cut their payments back to what was being charged on the maximum rent date set for their respective areas."

The landlord, it was emphasized, has no choice in the matter. Exceptions are provided where a dwelling has been substantially improved, where it is now being rented furnished and formerly was rented unfurnished, and where previous rents were affected by a personal relationship between landlord and tenant.

Lt. Roosevelt Now Member of Bar

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—Lieut. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., U. S. N., became a member of the New York State bar today in a ceremony conducted by Presiding Justice Francis Martin of the Appellate division of the state supreme court. Roosevelt's mother, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, was present.

Young Roosevelt passed his bar examination last March.

well, two passenger recaps and two tubes; Marietta Daniels, four passenger recaps and two tubes; Community Bakery, four truck recaps and four tubes; William N. Kight, two passenger recaps and two tubes; Nannie E. Crable, four passenger recaps and four tubes; Robert C. Grove, two passenger recaps and two tubes; and William Crider, four passenger recaps and four tubes.

Two Remarkable Adventures

The sinking produced two other remarkable adventures, one of a gunner whose foot was caught in a rope and pulled under the surface before an explosion freed him, and the other of the submarine commander pulling two crewmen from the sea, treating one's injuries and giving them cigarettes before putting them aboard the only life raft that remained afloat.

Second Mate Amigo Soriano of Seattle, Wash., and Theodore Snow of El Segundo, Calif., said the sub commander wore shorts and spoke perfect English with an Oxford accent. He dressed Snow's cuts with alcohol, and said: "Are you American boys? Sorry we had to do this, but this is war." They said four other members of the crew spoke English.

Given German Cigarettes

They put the men aboard the life raft, gave them German cigarettes named "Golden Ring," and departed.

Young Harrison disregarded orders from the gun crew commander to abandon ship, saying, "I'm going to get a shot at that sub if I have to go down with the ship." He was last seen in the gun pointer's position, and just before the ship sank his gun spoke, but it was not known if he had a target since the submarine was not sighted by the others until the ship went down.

Driver Receives Suspended Fine

Robert James Brady, 215 Primrose alley, received a suspended fine in trial magistrates' court yesterday on a charge of exceeding thirty miles an hour in a restricted zone on Route 220. He was arrested by Trooper Joseph P. White.

Two steps to amazing new pep...vitality... better looks!

If you are one of those unfortunates who have worked under a strain, failed to eat the proper foods, have been vexed by overtaxing worries, or have suffered with colds, the flu, or other illness... yet have no organic trouble or focal infection... and your red blood-cells have become reduced in vitality and number... if your stomach digestion refuses to work properly, then here is what should help you!

1 Restore vital digestive juices in the stomach

For when you tune up the stomach and get its digestive juices flowing freely, you should enjoy again that old-time zest for food... stomach digestive miseries should vanish.

2 RICH, RED BLOOD

S.S.S. Tonic also gives you the mineral matter in soluble and digestive form to restore your blood to its rich, red color... to its so-called fighting strength... this makes for better body tone... muscular and mental freshness! Thus you may get new vitality... pep... become animated... more attractive!

Build sturdy health

Because S.S.S. is in liquid form it begins to work as soon as you take it. Surprising results may be had by making the S.S.S. treatment a part of your daily diet. Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits S.S.S. Tonic has brought to them and scientific research shows that it usually gets results—that's why so many say "S.S.S. Tonic builds sturdy health and makes you feel like yourself again." © S.S.S. Co.

Stocks Stage Fairly Good Advance With Gains Running to Two Points

Volume Expands under the Leadership of Motor Issues

By BERNARD S. O'HARA

NEW YORK, May 27. (AP)—Stocks moved into a fairly broad advance today under the leadership of motor and key issues achieved final gains ranging from fractions to 2 or more points.

The Associated Press 60-stock average retained a net advance of 4 of a point at 34.6. Of the 669 stocks traded 395 advanced, 111 declined and 163 were unchanged.

Volume expanded from that of recent sessions at 433,830 shares against 284,930 Tuesday.

Chrysler, up 1 1/2, and General Motors, up 1 1/2, reached their best levels for the year. Well ahead at the close were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Sears Roebuck, Case, Caterpillar, Westinghouse, General Electric, duPont, Union Carbide, Johns-Manville, U. S. Gypsum, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Aluminum, Ltd., American Cyanamid, Great Atlantic & Pacific, non-voting, Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Humble Oil and International Petroleum were among the gainers in the curb. Transfers here were 48,690 shares.

The general tone of the bond market showed spot improvement as some rails and utilities continued to attract buyers and there was a better demand for U. S. government bonds.

Trading picked up, especially in late dealings, sending the day's total sales to $7,037,000, par value, from $5,147,800 yesterday.

Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 5s and 6s led the advance. Others up fractions to a point or so included Reading-Jersey Central 4s at 76, Baltimore & Ohio stamped convertibles of '60 at 20 1/2, St. Paul 5s at 15 1/2, Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s at 35 1/2 and New York Central 5s at 50 1/2.

"The Tuttles of Tahiti" Coming to Liberty

Giving Charles Laughton an exceptionally engaging and unique character portrayal, "The Tuttles of Tahiti," starting tomorrow at the Liberty, is an impressive screen version of "No More Gas," the Charles Nordhoff-James Norman Hall novel of South Seas romance and extravagance in the period just before the outbreak of the current war.

Laughton has the role of Jonas Tuttle, a good-natured head of the prolific Tuttle family, partly Polynesian descendants of an eighteenth-century roving New Englander. Unlike their neighbors, the Tattos, the Tuttles spend and gamble away every penny they get, and are deeply in debt to the kind-hearted Dr. Blondin, the Pepeepe doctor, who envies them their carefree existence.

Young Chester Tuttle returns from several years of sea-faring bringing with him a fighting cock that he hopes will beat any of the Tattos birds. The Tuttles bet everything they own on Chester's gamecock, and lose. Jonas is stunned, and Chester abandons his hopes of marrying pretty Tamara Tattos. The Tuttle boys, out on a fishing trip, find an abandoned sailing vessel and bring it into port.

The salvage money brings the Tuttles undreamed-of wealth, which they promptly squander. Chester and Tamara are married, but presently the family finds itself penniless again, and old Emily Tattos sets about annulling her daughter's marriage, while Jonas has lost the money he was saving out to pay off Dr. Blondin.

Jon Hall as Chester and Peggy Drake as Tamara have the romantic leads in "The Tuttles of Tahiti," with Victor Francot, noted French actor, as Dr. Blondin, and Florence Bates and Adeline DeWalt Reynolds as rival matchmakers of the Tattos and Tuttle clans.

Bennett and Tone Please as Wife, Flyer

Laugh-filled fable of a Yank in the R. A. F., who is forced to bail out over occupied Holland and finds himself in Dutch, in danger and in love, Columbia's hilarious "The Wife Takes a Flyer," which opens today at the Maryland theater. Franchot Tone, the flyer, Major supporting players in the bright new comedy include Allyn Joslyn, as a pompous Nazi major; Cecil Cunningham and Roger Clark.

Richard Wallace directed the delightful love-and-laughter, which was produced by B. P. Schulberg, Wallace, who also directed the co-stars "The Wife Takes a Flyer," a joyful combination of thrills and

SHE'S "TRUE TO THE ARMY"

Leave to love the lovely Ann Miller is all Allan Jones wants in Paramount's hilarious army camp movie, "True to the Army," which comes Friday to the Strand theater. Jones' love story isn't a smooth one, though, because he has to run interference for Jerry Colonna and Judy Canova who have romantic ideas, too. The picture is full of fun and music.

romance, comedy and excitement. Tone appears as the Yankee flyer who escapes enemy bombs over the Channel, only to have a brunette bombshell explode in his arms! Shot down he manages to evade the Gestapo searching for him by posing as the estranged husband of a lovely little Dutch girl, Miss Bennett, sheltering the flyer, finds her life further complicated by the presence of a pompous Nazi major who also is attracted to her. When Tone goes eccentric in a court room, while she is seeking a divorce, "The Wife Takes a Flyer" takes on a hysterical-producing tangle.

that will hold you spellbound beginning with the first clue. Also showing on the same program is another chapter of "Dick Tracy vs. Crime."

Western and Mystery Showing at Embassy

Opening today at the Embassy theater are two outstanding feature pictures including "North of the Rockies," with two famous western heroes in Bill Elliott and Tex Ritter. You will thrill as they draw their beads on bandits in this triple action film. The associate feature, "A Desperate Chance for Ellery Queen," starring William Gargan and Margaret Lindsay, portrays two sleuths in a fascinating mystery

Snead Conquers Byrd as Field Is Reduced to 16

Vic Ghezzi Finds His Uniform No Protection, Bowing to Demaret

By GAYLE TALBOT
ATLANTIC CITY, May 27 (AP)—Sammy Byrd more or less as scheduled and Corporal Vic Ghezzi, the defending champion today as the Professional Golfers' Association championship moved through the opening set of thirty-six matches at the Seaview club.

The day was devoid of upsets. Where thirty-two players teed off in the morning, only sixteen remained tonight, and included in the list of survivors were all of the really top contenders. Ghezzi's defeat at the hands of Jimmy Demaret of Detroit was not unexpected, as Vic has been too busy in recent months learning the manual of arms to keep his golf game in tune. He went down 4 and 3.

Most of the scant first-day gallery followed the match between Snead and Byrd. Up to the noon hour, the former New York Yankee outfielder made Snead hump. But as they threshed into the afternoon round Snead's vastly greater tournament experience began to tell and in the end he closed Byrd out decisively, 7 to 6.

Byrd, playing in his first P. G. A. title event, shot a 71 — one under par — in the morning and a 72 in the afternoon, and wrestled par to a draw in the afternoon, but he was no match for the sledge gun Snead.

Slamm'n' Sam, who will be inducted into the navy shortly after his tournament ends, shot some of his best golf of his big money career. He had a 68 in the morning and a 70 in the afternoon, and in the concluding round shot five straight birdies.

Nelson Wins Easily
Byron Nelson of Toledo literally oiled with Harry Nettleblatt, of Avon, Conn. He alternately complained of an upset stomach and his drives as he disposed of Harry by a score of 5 and 3. Yet he was a strokes under par for thirty-three holes.

Ben Hogan, considered the man to eat after Nelson, had a similarly easy trip through the first round. He shot a 68 in the morning and a 70 in the afternoon, and in the concluding round shot five straight birdies.

Ky Laffoon of Miami, Okla., who stired from steady competitive golf several years ago, shot the hottest out of the day in eliminating Vic Lass of Keokuk, Iowa, 12 and 11, only twice in P. G. A. history has a player won by so one-sided a margin. Laffoon scored a six-under in the morning and was three under par for seven holes in the afternoon.

Harry Cooper, the medalist, had a follow-up worried when he lost to fike Turnesa in the morning, but he Minneapolis veteran pulled himself together to shoot an unbeatable golf after lunch and win out 3 and 1. Craig Wood, the National open champion, had a first round 68 and didn't let up a particle the afternoon as he subdued (Continued on Page 21, Col. 1)

Athletes in Service Getting Restless Over Having Safe Jobs in Army, Navy

By IRA WOLFERT
NEW YORK, May 27.—Athletes are people, it seems, and are now getting restless over having safe jobs in the army and navy where they can fight the war without getting hurt. Quite a few of them want to be where they can attend to the war personally instead of everlastingly training other fellows to do it.

We know this is particularly true in the navy whose fellows have seen the most action so far and where Gene Tunney's outfit has collared some of the best known young athletes in the country. About a half dozen of the so-called "Tunneyfish" that we've talked to recently all have their applications in for transfers to more dangerous services.

Restless about Names
One of them would make a particularly valuable story. He is known everywhere and wherever he is known he is liked. He is a natural athlete and, even more important, a natural leader of athletically inclined young men. He asked us not to use his name. In fact, all those we talked to asked us to suppress their names.

"Most of us here," this best known of them all said, "got into it before the war really started. Those were funny days. You had to guess, was there going to be fighting or what. And we were like everybody else, satisfied to be where we could fight the war without getting hurt."

The argument we used on ourselves sounded very convincing in those days. Take me, for instance. I wanted to be a physical training instructor. That was the thing. I liked best and could do best. I was in the middle of a career as a competitive athlete, but that was only for the money and could last only for a few years and could not be a life-work.

"Then this thing comes along and the navy needs physical training instructors. They need fellows with reputations to stir up enlistments and they need the very best kind of physical fitness program for the boys coming in. They really need it. There's no baloney about it. It's important and the war can't be won without it."

"You listen to this kind of argument. If I take up a gun or something, I'm one guy shooting bullets and that's the limit of what I can do. But in something like the Tunney program, a man like Bob Feller, for instance, or somebody like that with a reputation, if he's kept at home base, his reputation can be used to get several hundred fellows to join up. He can get thousands of fellows to work in a fitness program as they never would work for anybody else and besides he can raise thousands and thousands of dollars for the navy."

Better than Shooting
"Doing this, he is doing much more than he possibly could shoot behind a gun somewhere and shooting and maybe not even getting a chance to shoot, but stopping one in his sleep."

"That's why I went into it and I sacrificed to do it, too. I've got home responsibilities and not much money. But hell, here was war—even if it was a funny kind of war, a yes or no or what-is-with-you war—and I felt everybody ought to do the best by it that he was fitted for."

"Then the fighting started. Then . . . I don't know . . . you can't say anything against the Tunney program. That has to be and the fellows in it don't have any picnic."

But . . . well . . . I don't know. I'm in my twenties and I was sending out fellows my own age, sometimes older, training them to fight and getting word back of how they were doing and, hell, it just didn't feel like I was doing my duty.

"Older men could do the work I was doing in the fitness program. There's no need any more to stir up fellows to get them to enlist. Everybody is fighting mad nowadays and I'm tired of doing more valuable work of whatever it is. I want to fight."

We said at this point that the use of his name in connection with such a statement as this would be very helpful to morale generally as showing how young men felt nowadays.

I am tired of being helpful to others and of being of service to others," he replied. "I now want to do something for myself for a change. If you use my name or the names of any of us around here, maybe our superior officers would get sore at the way we're sounding off and end our chance to get on a fighting ship or in the air corps or wherever we want to go. They want us here and we have to be careful or they'll keep us here."—North American Newspaper Alliance.

Report Has Vanderbilt Enlisting in Navy

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—The Daily News said tonight that Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, wealthy sportsman and former president of Belmont Park and the Maryland Jockey Club, had enlisted in the navy as a boatswain and reported to Washington, D. C., today.

The newspaper said Vanderbilt visited Belmont Park on Long Island and Saturday for a last look at his racing stable, then appeared at the induction center at 90 Church street in Manhattan Monday and enlisted.

Vanderbilt, 29-year-old heir to a purported $20,000,000 fortune, resigned as head of the New York and Baltimore racing groups early last month and applied for appointment in the navy as an aviation voluntary specialist with the rank of lieutenant, junior grade.

At the same time, he gave up directorships in the Saratoga Racing Association, the United Hunt Club and the Turf and Field club.

Mounts Abandon Plans For Baseball Campaign

EMMITSBURG, Md., May 27 (AP)—Lack of transportation facilities have forced Mount St. Mary's college to abandon plans for a twenty-five-game summer baseball schedule with Mason-Dixon Conference schools, and is threatening the football schedule.

The Rev. Dr. John P. Gogan, director of athletics announced that four of seven schools scheduled to meet the Mounts in football this fall had cancelled the contests. Dr. Gogan said the Mounts would go through with games scheduled with Catholic universities, Washington college and Western Maryland. Meanwhile, intramural baseball and softball leagues have been organized under direction of Jack Armstrong, athletic association president, to take place of the cancelled summer intercollegiate baseball program.

Yankees' Bonham Scores Seventh Victory of Year

Big Righthander Twirls Seven-Hit Ball To Defeat A's, 8-3

By JUDSON BAILEY
NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—Ernest (Tiny) Bonham, this year's pitching marvel of the major leagues, chalked up his seventh successive triumph today as the world champion New York Yankees toyed with the Philadelphia Athletics to win 8 to 3.

The huge righthander pitched seven-hit ball without apparent exertion, after his comrades gave him the margin of victory with a five-run spurge in the fourth inning. The crowd of 6,703 fans had anticipated seeing the undefeated star hurl his fifth shutout, but the Athletics stabbed a run across in the second inning to break a string of fifteen scoreless innings for Bonham.

Before today the big fellow had pitched forty-nine scoreless frames in the total of fifty-three innings that he had worked this season, but in the second stanza today Dee Miles drove a liner into left center for a triple and scored when Elmer Valo grounded out.

The Yanks had pounded two runs across in the first inning. Philadelphia tied the score in the fourth but in the last half of the same frame the champions crashed through for five runs. After two were out Phil Rizuto singled, Bonham walked, Crosetti singled for one run and Hasset for another. Then Henrich slammed his fourth homer into the right field stands for three tallies.

In the next inning Tex Shirley replaced Fred Caliguri and was tapped for the Yanks' final run on singles by Charley Keller, Joe Gordon and Rizuto.

The A's other run came in the ninth on a double by Dick Siebert, an infield out and a long fly by Valo. The box score:

Race Meeting Opens At Wheeling Today

WHEELING, W. Va., May 27 (AP)—A crowd of about 5,000 persons is expected to witness the opening of the spring horse racing meeting tomorrow at Wheeling Downs, Resident Manager Edward S. Stump said today.

The management is making preparations for a crowd of about 10,000 on Saturday, Memorial day, when a card of eight races will be run. Approximately 600 horses already are stabled at the track.

Tomorrow and other week-days, seven races will be run. There are eighteen nominees for tomorrow's feature race, the inaugural, to be run over a distance of six one-half furlongs.

Among the owners who have brought their animals to Wheeling for the meeting is Mrs. Emil Demark of Chicago, who has with her an even dozen horses.

Navy Tossers Bow To Cadets, 10 to 3

Army Scores Twenty-first Victory in Inter-Service Series

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 27 (AP)—Two big innings enabled army's baseball team to trounce Navy, 10 to 3, today for its twenty-first victory in the thirty-fifth game of the inter-service series.

With approximately 4,000 fans looking on, the Cadets broke up a pitcher's duel between Navy's Phil Hurt and Greyleg Bog Whitlow by pouncing on the Middle righthander for five runs in the fifth. They continued the attack against Southpaw Jack Davis who hurled the sixth, smashing four more runs across.

Bill Guckeyson, Army outfielder, a former University of Maryland athlete, led the ruinous attack, clouting triples in both the fifth and sixth rounds. His second three-bagger came after Davis loaded the bases on walks.

Shortstop Warren McNamara tallied two Middle runs, and clouted a homer in the eighth. He tied the score in the third when he walked, took third on First Baseman Fritz Hansen's single and came home on George Watson's fly to right.

Bob Kyle Resigns As Romney Coach

Former W.V.U. Athlete Takes Over N.Y.A. Position at Charleston

ROMNEY, W. Va., May 27.—Robert "Bob" Kyle, athletic director and coach at Romney high school for the past four years, has resigned and has departed for Charleston, W. Va., to take over his new duties as recreational director in the West Virginia National Youth Administration. It was announced today by the Hampshire County Board of Education.

During his stay at the local school, the former West Virginia university athlete from Princeton, W. Va., put Romney on the football map. His first team was fairly successful while his 1939 squad compiled an even better record. The last two years, Romney elevens have carried off Potomac Valley Conference championships.

Kyle also turned out strong basketball teams here and this spring gave Romney its first sectional track and field championship. School officials indicated they will not consider applications for the coaching post left open until August.

Jack Wilhelm's two-hit pitching proved too much for the North End Social and Athletic Club up their fourth straight City Softball League victory by a 5-3 margin yesterday on the North End Playground field to the Keegan's Collegians, who were idle, for first place.

Lacy's Delicats tightened their grip on third place by turning back the Central Y.M.C.A. combination 4-1 at Campobello in a contest featured by "Chick" Snider's home run for the Delicats in the first inning with the sacks empty.

Angellatta Paces Merchants
Jim Angellatta had a perfect day at the plate for West Side, banging out a pair of singles, while Rick Brown and Minnick's shared North End's two safeties. John "Bugs" Morrissey's was the only extra-base rap.

North End got away to a 2-0 lead in the first inning on an error, a walk and Morrissey's error of "Dinks" Skidmore's fly to right, but the Merchants tied the figures in the third on two walks, a fielder's choice and Angellatta's single.

The Nesa clubbers went ahead in the fourth on a walk and Brown's single but West Side came back with three tallies in the same frame to tie the game. A walk, a single, a fielder's choice and Morrissey's double did the breaking.

Athey Breaks Ice
Gene Scaletta toiled on the slab for the North Enders and gave up a half-dozen blows. The West Siders had a dozen men stranded on the paths.

The Delicats' "Fuzzy" Hoyle was too much for the "Y", which scored its lone run in the fifth. Herman Athey of Lacy's crew, who had gone hitless since the campaign started, broke the ice with two blows and a walk in three trips. The scores:

Mangrum Trims Metz

Corp. Jim Turnesa proved his great form in the qualifying round was no idle rumor as he bounced E. J. "Dutch" Harrison by 6 and 5. Harold "Jug" McSpaden disposed of Sam Parks, Jr. the former open champion from Pittsburgh 7 and 6. Joe Kirkwood, Jr. the trick shot artist, ousted Jimmy Thomson, the long driver, 4 and 2.

Lloyd Mangrum, who once worked for Dick Metz at Oak Park, Ill., and was — shall we say — discharged, went very grimly about eliminating his former employer, 6 and 5. Tony Penna shot good golf, including a first round 70, to beat Jimmy Hines, of Great Neck, N. Y. Ed Dudley trimmed Denny Shute, twice P. G. A. champion, 3 and 2.

Willie Goggin of White Plains, N. Y., found himself unexpectedly one down to Ed Burke of Hamden, Conn., at noon and came back to win eventually, 2 and 1. Leland Gibson, of Kansas City, smashed young Jimmy Gauntt, of Longview, Texas, 10 and 9. He was seven under par for twenty-seven holes.

Tom Harmon of Montclair, N. J., eliminated the host professional, Bruce Coltart, 3 and 2.

Starting at 9:30 (EWT) tomorrow, the second — round matches will go off in this order:

Demaret vs. Harmon; Wood vs. Gibson; Snead vs. Goggin; Dudley vs. Penna; Cooper vs. Mangrum; Nelson vs. Kirkwood; Jim Turnesa vs. McSpaden and Hogan vs. Lafayette.

DON'T IGNORE WARNINGS
PRACTICALLY all good players treat the rebid of a suit, in the hand opposite the first bidder of the side, as a warning that the hand might be weak generally, though with a suit long enough to protect itself. Unless your own hand is a bit above minimum, you will usually do well to heed the cautious note which has been sounded, and let your partner play the deal instead of going on to some contract of your own.

It should have been patent to East that he had hardly enough strength in his hand for the first two bids he made. When his partner rebid spades, at the range of three, East should not have spoken further unless his hand contained some additional strength, such as another ace or perhaps another king and queen.

As it turned out, West would have had a good chance to make his 3-Spades. The best play could have resulted in his losing only two tricks in diamonds and one each in the black suits.

At No Trumps, the heart 6 was opened to the Q and A. Three high Spades and a fourth to the J brought a return to the heart K, and then the heart 8 to the J. East now led a club to gain entry for dummy's spades, but when the A won the Q, a fourth heart was scored and two diamond tops, setting the contract two tricks.

West wins the third diamond and leads the club Q, how could North calculate accurately whether he should cover or not, in an effort to stop 3-No Trumps by West?

S. H. Dooley's 'War Clouds' Wins Picture Contest

Awards for Outstanding Photographs Are Made at Banquet

Awards for the "picture of the year" were presented at the regular meeting and fifth anniversary banquet of the Cumberland Miniature Camera club held last night in Central Y.M.C.A.

A photograph, "War Clouds," taken by S. H. Dooley was judged the best of sixty prints submitted to the Photographic Society of America, Philadelphia, for criticism.

John P. Mudd, A.P.S.A., A.R.P.S., who judged the photographs for the society, said the prints submitted were so outstanding that he selected fourteen for awards rather than the usual five.

Second prize was awarded to Mrs. William Weatherholt for her print, "Battle Wary," and third place went to John R. King's "Breezin' Along."

Fourth place was awarded to J. C. Christopher, Jr., and his print, "High Lights and Shadows," and fifth honor was given to King's "Portrait of Pete."

King receives additional honors.

King captured mention in twenty-five per cent of the winning pictures, receiving honorable mention for three additional prints besides his prize winners.

Leo Leasure was given honorable mention for three prints, Christopher for one, Charles Hornbrook one and Milton Mantell one.

The winning print, Dooley's "War Clouds," pictures the statue of a soldier on horseback with a background of menacing clouds.

Charles W. Jones, president of the club, presided at the meeting attended by forty-two members. Jones, who served in the First World War, has been called into service and will leave shortly for duty. He returned recently from an army hospital in Pittsburgh where he underwent an operation.

History of Club Outlined

A history of the club was outlined by G. W. McElfish, a charter member, who said since the club was organized it has never been necessary to solicit members. Eighty-one persons now are active in the club, he said.

The next meeting will be held June 10 at the Y.M.C.A. A print competition on night scenes will feature the meeting June 24.

Trophies were presented to the first three prize winners by Morris Fram, manager of Harvey's jewelry store.

New Orleans Man Arrested for Selling Uniforms without License

John S. Gillespie, New Orleans, La., was being held in city hall jail last night pending outcome of an investigation this morning.

He was arrested at 8:45 p. m. yesterday by Detective R. E. Flynn and Officers W. P. Crabtree and John Snyder for selling uniforms without a license, John J. Treiber, assistant chief of police said.

Gillespie was peddling a variety of uniforms, Treiber said, including outfits for service station attendants, truck drivers and nurses.

District Council of Defense Meets Here Friday

Isaac George, executive director of the Maryland Council of Defense, will attend a meeting of defense officials of the Western District of the Maryland Council here Friday, at 10:30 a. m. in the city council chamber.

Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor announced yesterday that Mayor Thomas F. Conlon has been named to the Western District section of the council.

Firemen Answer Two Alarms Here

Firemen from Engine company No. 2, responded to two alarms of fire within thirty-two minutes last night but there was no serious damage as a result of either blaze.

At 9:10 p. m., they extinguished a fire in the automobile of Thomas Hurl, parked in front of his home, 218 Thomas street. The fire was started by a short circuit, firemen said, and was confined to the switch.

The second alarm, received at 9:42 p. m., was a dump on Lafayette avenue. It was extinguished without damage.

Youth Sent to Jail For Sixty Days for Theft of Bicycle

Eugene Appold, 20, of Bowman's addition, was sent to the county jail for sixty days yesterday in trial magistrates' court on a charge of having stolen a bicycle January 25 on Harrison street.

Appold was arrested Monday night by Detectives R. Emmett Flynn and James J. Condon. The bicycle was owned by a girl.

Will Is Probated

The will of Charles L. Matlock, 463 Goethe street, probated in Orphans court Tuesday, distributes his estate among ten children. Vernon E. Rankin is executor.

Date for Civilian Defense Day Rally Changed to June 28

Mayor Thomas F. Conlon announced yesterday that the Civilian Defense day parade and program scheduled for Sunday, June 21, has been changed to Sunday, June 28 because Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor would have been unable to come here June 21 as he will be in Washington, D. C., attending an important meeting.

Conlon said invitations are now being mailed to organizations which wish to participate in the parade. Those groups which intend to be here for the program are asked to return a post card giving size of organization and musical units which will participate. Conlon and Vincent P. Ingram, civilian defense director of Allegany county, are co-chairmen for the event.

The final assembly of the senior class of Allegany high school was held yesterday afternoon in the school auditorium when awards for the year 1941-42 were presented.

Ira Stroup, president of the senior class, surrendered to Robert Fuller, president of the class of '43, the class staff whose standards he said he hoped would be upheld.

Gifts were presented to Miss Catherine Barker, who staged the senior class play, and to J. Hubert Radcliffe, senior class advisor. Both are members of the school faculty.

Band Gives Concert

A brief band concert preceded the presentation of the awards by Ralph R. Webster, principal, who announced that the Alumni Mirror, student newspaper, had received the highest honors awarded by both the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, sponsored by Columbia university, and the National Scholastic Press Association, of the University of Minnesota.

The medalist award from Columbia was presented to Anna Troxell, editor-in-chief of the paper, who gave the medal to the school for display in the trophy case. She also was presented with an All-American honor certificate from N. S. P. A.

Buckingham Explains Tree Trimming Law

Only trees growing on rights of way cannot be trimmed without permits from the district forester's office, H. C. Buckingham, district forester, said yesterday in explaining the law.

Trees growing on private property can be trimmed without a permit, he said, although the Forestry department is willing to give advice regarding the proper care.

A fee is charged for a trimming permit, Buckingham said, but no charge is made for the advice which, he added, is worthwhile because it helps keep trees in better condition and prevents damage to them.

Automobile Banking Corporation Appeals Circuit Court Verdict

An appeal to the Maryland Court of Appeals was filed in Allegany circuit court yesterday by the Automobile Banking Corporation, against a verdict in a case involving an adjustment of wage claims under the Federal and Hour act enacted by the federal government in 1938.

The jury awarded Woodrow A. Willison, Cumberland, a field representative for the ABC, $364 as overtime compensation. Harold R. Bish, manager of the corporation's Cumberland office and an alternate defendant, was eliminated from the case.

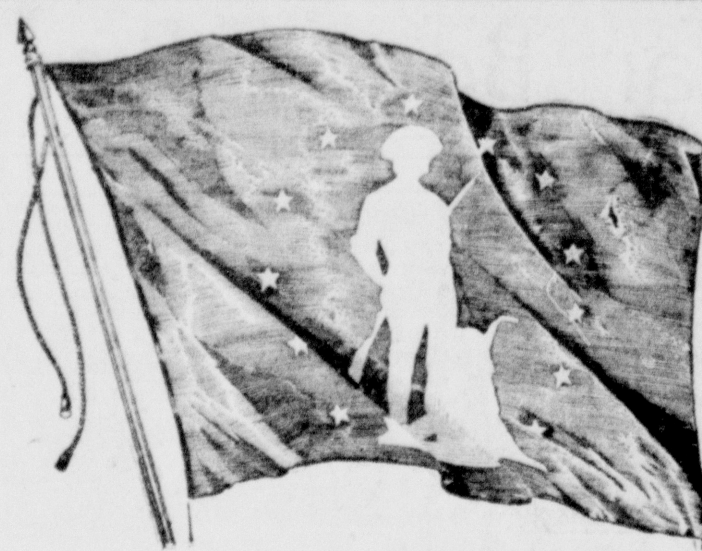

William A. Gunter, attorney for the corporation who filed the appeal, said it was based on "questions of law" and referred to the "direct verdict" against the corporation.

A motion for a new trial was noted on January 31, the day after a decision was reached, but the motion was overruled on April 7.

Willison's actual wage claims represented $282 but under the federal act a like sum is awarded as "liquidated damages." This part of the act is mandatory.

For the first time in the 135 year history of the university, seventy-four senior ROTC officers will attend commencement exercises in uniform, dispensing with the traditional caps and gowns. # SYMBOL OF PATRIOTISM—

This is the new Minute Man War Bond Flag, designed by the Treasury department for firms and organizations which attain more than 90 per cent participation in War Savings Bonds purchases by their employees or members through a systematic purchase plan. The Minute Man is emblazoned in white on a blue background, surrounded by thirteen stars, representing the nation's thirteen founding states. When companies, labor unions and other organizations top the ninety per cent figure, they will receive a special Minute Man certificate of award signed by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, the state administrator and the state chairman of the War Savings Staff, the Treasury department announced. This certificate entitles the recipient to fly the flag, which is being manufactured in various sizes.

Local Women Are Showing Interest In W. A. A. C.

Many Socially Prominent Women Seek Information Here

Cumberland women have shown much interest in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, Staff Sgt. Clarence Biehn, local army recruiter, said last night.

Many socially prominent women were among the sixty-five who went to Sgt. Biehn's office at the post office seeking information concerning the new unit. "Most of them say they want to do something to aid in winning the war," Sgt. Biehn said.

Practically all of those who have applied are married and say they wanted to take home the application blanks and "talk things over with hubby," Sgt. Biehn added.

Sgt. Biehn said he will send in all applications to the Third Corps Area headquarters, Baltimore, on June 4 and after they are examined those selected will receive a call from headquarters. None of those who apply will actually be enlisted from the local office, Sgt. Biehn said. "That's the job for headquarters," he added.

Women who are selected must be between twenty-one and forty-five years of age, citizens of the United States and be physically fit. Higher requirements are needed by women who wish to become officers in the corps.

Weaver Child Is Injured when She Is Hit by Car

A seven-year-old girl, Margaret Weaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Weaver, Cumberland, Route 3, was slightly injured yesterday afternoon when she ran in front of an automobile driven by D. R. Davis, also of Route 3, Allegany hospital attaches said last night.

The girl was brought to the hospital by her father about 5 p. m. and was treated for abrasions on both knees, upper right thigh and the right side of her head and a small laceration of her tongue. She was discharged after treatment.

No report of the accident was made to police.

Laundry Workers Will Return to Work Here Today

Agreement Is Reached between Companies and Union Representatives

Happy days are here again for housewives—the two weeks strike of 100 laundry workers against the Crystal and Cumberland laundries is over.

Operations at both laundries will resume this morning. The management of both laundries in an advertisement in today's News states that the companies regret that any misunderstanding arose between the management and employees and rejoices that entirely harmonious relations have been resumed.

Operations are resumed, the statement says, with the joint promise of the laundries and their employees to continue the same high grade service to which they have been accustomed.

Members of the union met last night and unanimously agreed to return to work today on the basis of an agreement reached between the companies and union representatives, Robert Glenn, CIO organizer, said last night.

Stroke Is Fatal To J. C. Smith

Veteran of Spanish-American War Dies in Kecoughtan, Va.

John C. (Sergeant) Smith, 70, of Flintstone, veteran of the Spanish-American war, died today at noon from a stroke of paralysis in Veterans' hospital, Kecoughtan, Va., where he had been a patient for the past two weeks.

Mr. Smith, a former resident of Cumberland, had resided in Flintstone for the past seventeen years. He was a member of the local Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Knights of Pythias.

Surviving are his widow, Josephine Smith, Flintstone; three sons, Vernon and Charles Smith, of Cumberland; and John Smith, who is serving in the army at Camp Hope, La.; three daughters, Mrs. Phyllis Schenley, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Charlie Twigg, Richmond, Va.; and Mrs. Anna May Davis, Flintstone; three brothers, Joseph Smith, Greensburg, Pa.; Clarence Smith, Cumberland; and Frank Smith, El Paso, Texas; two sisters, Mrs. Lula Smith, Cumberland; and Mrs. Bess Kerr, whose address is unknown.

The body will be taken to the home in Flintstone today where friends and relatives will be received.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

McCormick Rites Will Be Held Friday

Funeral services for Charles Blair McCormick, 62, former railroad fireman, who died Tuesday night in a Baltimore hospital, will be held Friday in Stein's chapel with the Rev. Fred M. E. Grove officiating. Interment will be in Greenmount cemetery.

A son of the late Samuel S. and Rose Kiparth McCormick, he was a native of Britton, Pa., and once resided at 11 Pioneer place, Cumberland.

Mr. McCormick was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen and Chapel Hill Lodge, No. 53, I. O. O. F.
